Completely Restored To Health By "Fruit-a-lives"

382 St. Valier St., MONTREAL.
"In 1912, I was taken suddenly ill with Acute Stomach Trouble and dropped in the street. I was treated by several physicians for nearly two years, and my weight dropped from 225 pounds to 100 pounds. Then several of my friends advised me to try "Fruit-a-lives". I began to improve almost with the first dose, and by using them, I recovered from the distressing Stomach Trouble—and all pain and Constipation were cured. Now I weigh 208 pounds. I cannot praise "Fruit-a-lives" enough". H. WHITMAN.

"THE SECOND LINE" NEW BATTALIONS

(From Philip Gibbs.)
With the British Armies in the Field.

The British armies in the field are always growing, needing new camps, new billeting areas, increasing the traffic on the roads by new columns of supply wagons, new guns, new men, new boys marching with a steady tramp to places old and evil with war. The Second Line—or some of it—has been coming out. That is a new phase of the war. An astounding phase to men who remember, as I do, the thrill with which we welcomed the first of the Territorials and then the first of the "Kitchener crowd." That was nearly two years ago. Since then the First Line regiments of the Territorials and the new army divisions have fought all along the line, have been in scores of little "shows," and during the battles of the Somme stormed the German lines, broke them, stood fast against ferocious counter attacks, held on to captured ground though it was one flame of shell fire, and left blood of theirs at Fricourt, Contalmaison, Ovillers, Thiepval, Longueval, Martinpuich, High Wood, and Devil's wood, there and in a score of other captured strongholds to remain forever as a memory of British boyhood, splendid in courage, and of this war's tragedy of sacrifice. Now the Second Line battalions are coming along, and just as the First Line Territorials used to eye the old regular regiments who had fought down from Mons and along the Aisne—eyed them as men look upon others who have passed through fiery ordeals and are old in wisdom and remembrance and honor—so now these newcomers measure up the weather-worn, war-worn fellows of their First Line regiments as they pass along the roads or relieve each other in the trenches. The older soldiers—older in knowledge of war, though not in years—glance back at the march and discipline of the new crowds, at their physical qualities, at "the cut of their jibs." The verdict is favorable. "Good stuff." "They'll shape out all right—after they've been knocked about a bit." "Put 'em in the salient. That'll teach 'em!" "Lord! in a couple of months, after a bit of trench mortaring and whizz-banging and blowing-up in mine craters, and burying in dug-outs, and no grub in the forward posts, and trench feet in the shell craters; they'll be just like ourselves, and you wouldn't know the difference in the mud."

The Old Spirit.
Yes, they are good stuff, these Second Line battalions—the same good stuff of youth that came out in the beginning and has been coming out all the time, all the time with the same grey English eyes, the same Scottish sturdiness the same old look of hardihood and humor which I have seen for two and a half years. Their type does not change. These new men are the same as those who came before them, except in training, in tradition, and in experience. They will get that all right. Not a doubt of it! The first of the Second Line have been here some time, and in that time have been blooded to the grim adventure of this war. After hard training in a base camp (all the science of war is taught them by professors straight out of the trenches) they were put into an old part of the line, and one fine morning were ordered to support an attack of some importance. It was not a great success. Some of the second line men got tangled up in the German wire. Some of them poor lads, are there still. They learnt their lesson, saw the meaning of it all, the price of mistakes, the value of discipline, the price difficulty of getting on in the face of machine gun fire and heavy barrages. After that the second line men could say to the first line men—"All right, (continued on Page Four.)"

2,000,000 Belgians Depend on us for Bread!

Since shortly after the German invasion, the Belgians have depended for food entirely on the "Commission for Relief in Belgium". Their own store of food, even if not destroyed or pillaged, would last only three weeks—they have had no chance to raise more—and the ruthless Germans refuse to supply them!

Backed by the Belgian Relief Fund

so generously contributed in the British Empire and the United States, the neutral Belgian Relief Commission has imported enough wheat, flour and other foods to feed the whole nation so far. The great majority of the 7,000,000 Belgians left in the country have been able to pay for their daily allowance of bread—but a steadily growing number have no money left.

Unless we are willing to let these hundreds of thousands of women, children and old men starve, they must be fed at the expense of the Belgian Relief Fund. To make this possible someone must contribute nearly $3,000,000 a month—every month—all this winter!

No people under the Allied Flags are as well able to contribute generously as we Canadians! No cause has ever been more deserving of help! In the name of Justice and Humanity—for the sake of our own self-respect—let us give all we can to help our martyred Allies!
