Southern Europe is again about to be deluged in war. Their reputation for events of this kind seems to be about as good as that of Mexico. The old Emperor Francis Joseph has long held his unruly subjects in check but the weight of almost a century hangs on his shoulders. Austria-Hungary is a dual kingdom, one-half of which is German and one-half Slav, and they mix just about as well as oil and water. A split is sure to come sooner or later. It is an open secret that Germany wants a slice and when the time comes the Slavs will see to it that they are removed from under the present yoke or die in the attempt. Whether the present events will light the long looked for torch is yet only a matter of conjecture.

The perpetual Irish question is still far from being solved. Premier Asquith's amending bill has not proven satisfactory and even the conference called by the King has not produced results. Viewing the question from this distance. one is inclined to think that were both Carson and Redmond thrown into jail, the question could easily be solved.

The Irish question has split governments in the past and it is very likely to do so with the present administration. A shuffle of forces is almost sure to take place. As the parties stand at present both sides have discordent elements, and they will likely gravitate to their proper places. The legislation of Lloyd George is likely to furnish the line of cleavage.

making a political attack on her husband, was not received with surprise. Under any circumstances it is a difficult matter to punish a woman, and when she happens to be beautiful and of a good family the task is that much harder. The French, however, being a very chivalrous and emotional people, made her conviction much more impossible. Most people are inclined to forget her victim and the sorrows occasioned thereby and think only of the woman before the bar of justice. While the decision may be a popular one with certain classes, it creates a precedent that may cause considerable trouble in the future.

we are told that the city presented a perfect case. There is nothing like modesty. We are inclined to think that we will know more about how perfect the case of the city was presented after the Government has rendered its decision.

Nothing has been heard of our Federal member, Mr. H. S. Clements for a long time now. Recently a dummy was fished out of the post office swimming hole, and it was at first thought that it might be our "popular" member, as it is certain that he will lose his political life in those polluted waters.

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC

Winnipeg Business

Two vice-presidents of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, Mr. Morley Donaldson and Mr. J. E. Dalrymple, have just attended the opening of Canada's largest and most modern summer hotel. This is the Minaki Inn, situated on the Winnipeg River, one hundred and fifteen miles east of Winnipeg; three hundred and thirty-four miles west of Fort William, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

The railway officers were accompanied by many prominent bankers and businessmen of the city of Winnipeg.
