FISHING FLEET

In view of the fact that there is no sign of an early settlement of the American fishermen's strike, T. D. Pattullo's suggestion that the drydock be used in the meantime for the construction of Canadian fishing boats is timely. A fleet of about a hundred, or even fifty, halibut schooners would help Prince Rupert materially. Before the strike, one was apt to think that, after all, the bringing of American boats to this port was not doing so much in the way of an increase of general business as had been hoped. With the men paid off at their home ports in the south, the bulk of their money was certainly not distributed here, still there was enough money circulated by the fishermen to make their presence felt in the city, or rather to make their absence felt, for it was not until the strike came along that the business men fully realized how much of an asset they were.

If the Canadian fleet could be materially increased by the building of boats here, it would be a big step forward for the city. Not only would the boat-building bring along a pay roll, but the Canadian fishermen would be paid off here. With an increased number of boats there would be a big impetus given to the fishing business generally and lines which are at present practically neglected could be developed to great advantage. For instance, cod fishing has not been followed up as it deserves. As a matter of fact Nova Scotia still ships salted cod to Prince Rupert and it is displayed in nearly every grocery store. If Nova Scotia can get revenue from curing cod, Prince Rupert should be able to do likewise.

The sea is to Prince Rupert what the prairies are to Winnipeg, therefore it is up to this city to do everything possible to keep the fishing harvest growing. If shipbuilding on a big scale is not possible, let us begin on a fishing boat scale and the bigger lines of the enterprise will naturally follow.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Sir Roger Casement must have felt pretty lonely when his German friends left him in that collapsible boat.

The Irish rebels will probably think it decidedly unfair of the British to introduce machine guns into a Donnybrook.

Berlin is disappointed at the failure of the Casement filibustering expedition. Berlin must surely be getting used to disappointments by this time.

The Kaiser delayed sending off his note to Washington until he saw how the Irish raid fared. Several of the clauses will probably be now toned down.

Since the Prussian casualty lists do not include the Saxons, Bavarians and Wurtembergers, they convey little information as to the actual losses. Britain might as well publish a list leaving out the Scotch, Irish, Welsh and colonial losses.

Crown Prince Willie is to have a great fire-works display on his birthday. He is liable to get his fingers burned.

The ladies in the south are evidently determined that the Bowser government will not be allowed to shirk the question of woman suffrage. Now, ladies, the poor gentlemen at Victoria have quite enough to worry them just at present.

National Preparedness does not come from guns and dreadnoughts alone, but from men who are fit for the day's work. The making of men is a question of food and rational exercise. You can't build stalwart men out of an unbalanced "ration." Shredded Wheat Biscuit contains all the material needed for building the perfect human body. It is the whole wheat grain made digestible by steam-cooking, shredding and baking. One or more Shredded Wheat Biscuits for breakfast with milk or cream makes a man fit for work or play. It is ready-cooked and ready-to-serve.

build submarines, and was particularly well situated to do business with Russia.

The Grand Trunk Pacific company apparently does not believe that Prince Rupert is too far remote for the gathering of material, otherwise it would never have embarked upon the project of the drydock in the first instance and as to the cost of labor, if it be true that the Grand Trunk is paying no higher wages for labor than is currently understood, I question very much whether wages generally obtaining in the east are not considerably higher than those paid here.

At the present moment the Opposition in the House at Ottawa are urging upon the government the necessity of immediate action being taken towards a shipbuilding program. I believe that the provincial government should also take a hand in this connection. For instance, we ought to have a fishing fleet of Canadian bottoms operating out of this port at least a hundred strong. This of itself would make a nice little town and there seems to me no reason why it cannot be brought about.

The truth of it is that the Ottawa and provincial governments are wallowing in corruption and incompetence and whatever anybody may think of other portions of the Dominion and of this province, northern British Columbia and the metropolis of northern B. C., Prince Rupert, will never come into their own until we have a Liberal government in office both at Ottawa and Victoria.

We have every natural advantage here but "somebody" is keeping us back. It is up to the governments, Dominion and provincial.

The people may be assured that with a change of government both at Ottawa and Victoria, there will be something doing and this northern country will take on new life.

Faithfully yours,

T. D. PATTULLO.
