MINES REPORT FOR OMINECA

Output Nearly as Great in 1919 as Before, Despite Lessened Copper Production.

TELKWA COLLIERIES
PRODUCING STEADILY

J. D. Galloway, resident engineer for the interior mineral district, reports favorable progress in his district during 1919 and a total production nearly as large as that in 1918. The actual production of placer gold has decreased somewhat and, like other districts, the production of copper is also lower on account of the cessation of war activities. The most of the silver, lead and zinc in the district was produced by the Silver Standard mine at Hazelton. Fifteen hundred tons of coal were mined at Telkwa during the year.

The district is reported still in the prospect stage although several mines have been brought to the shipping class. It is expected that the great increase in population, due to land settlement, will add to the prospecting activity. During the past year the "boom" in the Stewart and Alice Arm districts has somewhat detracted from the interior district. Generally speaking, the future outlook is good and steady growth in the development and production of the district may be looked for.

Activity at Usk.
The town of Usk, situated 100 miles from here, was the scene of considerable mining activity during the year. A concentrating mill is now in operation for use in preparing gold and bornite for shipping. Copper values have also been brought to the surface although little shipment has yet been done. A power plant is now in course of construction on the completion of which development work will be enabled to go on with increased expedition. Silver and copper showings have been proved at Pacific along with lead and galena. Many trails have been made in the hills which make the problem of transportation of supplies much easier.

SILVER STANDARD
The only producing mine in the Hazelton district was the Silver Standard as the Roche de Boule, the big copper producer, was closed up all year. Development on the Standard during the year was very satisfactory and considerable ore has been steadily stopped during the period from the main vein with a considerable tonnage still in reserve. The Standard mill now treats 25 tons per day and is running well. During the winter, however, the water supply is frequently frozen up. An oil flotation plant is now being considered which would be more efficient and generally satisfactory.

HYDRO ELECTRIC
In the Telkwa district there has been more development work than ever before. This has been all exploitation work but considerable production is looked for in 1920. The Skeena Mining and Milling company has purchased a site and will install a hydro-electric plant and 50 ton water concentrator on Hudson Bay Mountain, 12 miles from the town of Smithers. Work is continuing all winter on the Babine Bonanza, better known as "Cronin's Mine." This property is connected with the town of Telkwa, a distance of about 30 miles. Besides the regular mineral development the Telkwa Collieries are steadily mining coal at the Telkwa mines. This coal is improving in quality as depth is attained and a good quality of coal is now being mined. It is said there is enough in sight to supply all Northern B.C. if an emergency came.

K. L. Rauk, accompanied by his wife and two little girls, left on the Princess Beatrice for Vancouver last night. He is going to obtain medical treatment for the eldest girl and may go East. He will resume the printing business in the city on his return in a month or so.

C. C. Perry, Indian agent, spent the week-end at Usk and visited the Usk and Kitselas reserves. Mr. Perry is advising the Indians to keep away from town while the influenza epidemic is threatened here. Last year he had a number of bad cases on his hands.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Harris came down from Stewart on the Prince John yesterday afternoon.
