ENOCH ARDEN STORY IN MODERN LIFE

Wife Chooses First Husband When He Returns After Long Absence.

KANSAS CITY, August 7.—A war version of Enoch Arden, with a different ending, was written into the records of Judge C. A. Burney's court today, with Eugene E. Peel in the role of Philip Ray.

Back in 1914, according to Peel, there was an Annie Lee living at Carthage, Mo. Her name was Esther Warren. She had two suitors. Besides Peel, there was Henry Curtis. Curtis won in the courtship. He married Esther in August, 1914, and Peel came to Kansas City to be away from the remembrance.

Then came the world war, and tore Curtis away from his bride. In 1915 he went with the Canadian Expeditionary Forces to Belgium. From the battle of Mons came word to Esther of her husband's death.

Peel learned of the widowhood of his former sweetheart and renewed his courtship. On September 19, 1916, Peel and Esther were wed. They came to Kansas City to live.

In June, 1919, Curtis came home. Months in a hospital, delirious and unable to tell his identity, marks of identification lost, was his explanation for his long absence. He had been gassed and listed as dead in action.

"Not to tell her, never to let her know," the words of Tennyson's Enoch Arden, did not occur to Henry Curtis. He found trace of his wife and showed up in the midst of a seemingly happy married life. Esther was asked to choose. She did. Peel's request for a divorce was granted.
