

STRICKEN IN THE STREET

Completely Restored To Health By "Fruit-a-lives"

882 St. Valer St., MONTREAL.

"In 1912, I was taken suddenly ill with Acute Stomach Trouble and dropped in the street. I was treated by several physicians for nearly two years, and my weight dropped from 225 pounds to 160 pounds. Then several of my friends advised me to try "Fruit-a-lives". I began to improve almost with the first dose, and by using them, I recovered from the distressing Stomach Trouble—and all pain and Constipation were cured. Now I weigh 208 pounds. I cannot praise "Fruit-a-lives" enough". H. WHITMAN.

does more than any other man to make the price for the accessories of life.

The dispatches from London said that Sir Joseph was made a baronet on account of his services to the British Empire. And that may well be, although we do not see that a man, who is booked to make millions out of his beef stew contract with the British army, can be said to give his services for love alone. Here in Canada we prefer to believe that Sir Joseph got his title for his elevating influence on everything he touches, not only men and affairs, but food products. If eggs are fifty cents a dozen at the height of the laying season and a dollar at Christmas, if cheese is thirty cents a pound and bacon fifty put it down to the elevating influence of Sir Joseph Flavelle. Sir Joseph is some elevator. What he has done in the way of elevating during the last three years makes the ordinary elevator man look sick.

Sir Joseph's career is an inspiration to the young men of this country. What a story it would make for the movies! From sausages to shells—from one high explosive to another. From Sausages to Peerage. From the Dark Ages to the Sausages. That will be about enough. Any one with a lively fancy can play with the subject.

Sir Joseph's full name is Joseph Wesley Flavelle. When he became a baronet many people thought he would choose his middle name to adorn the page of history and be known as Sir Wesley Flavelle. But Sir Joseph felt that his piety was sufficiently advertised already. So Sir Joseph it is.

Joseph is a name of high import. By some Sir Joseph's choice of it in preference to the sacred name of Wesley is considered significant. The original Joseph was a public man, the prime minister of Pharaoh—he in the show for the king. Sir Joseph is said at one time or another to have aspired, if not to be premier, at least to manage him.

The original Joseph was also a food controller—but he tackled from the other end. He controlled food not for the profit of the middleman, but for the benefit of the consumer. He stored enough corn during seven fat years to keep the people nourished during seven lean years. If I remember my bible right, he gave the food away. That was cold storage working at its best. While Sir Joseph has not made a similar experiment so far, it is possible that some time in the near future he may emulate his great namesake and so regulate the price of bacon that a poor man can have it for breakfast at least once a week.—H. F. Gadsby.
