Truth and Friendship.

The Hague, August 7.—Commenting upon the appointment of Kuhlmann as Foreign Secretary of the German Empire, one newspaper here says that the new minister has always been a vigorous opponent of the policy of submarine warfare. He was also a disciple of a policy of doing everything possible to avoid the further alienation of Great Britain. He believed that after the war, friendship between Great Britain and the British Empire would be absolutely necessary to Germany. The same newspaper also expresses the opinion that the Foreign Secretaryship will do the most to bring about an understanding with Great Britain at the earliest possible moment.

HON. T. D. PATTULLO GOING TO WINNIPEG

Victoria, August 6.—"Yes, I am leaving this evening," remarked the Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, when asked as to whether it was his intention to be present at the great Liberal Convention to be held in Winnipeg this week. The Minister had just returned from a tour of the dry belt, where he had gone to see for himself some of the problems of irrigation falling within the jurisdiction of his department.

"I am sorry to say that I have no confidence in the capacity of the present Federal administration to carry out the measures necessary. The Federal Government," continued the Minister, "has played an extremely partizan part in a big national crisis, and has given woeful evidence of its incapacity properly to meet the emergency of the hour. The power of the nation first and foremost, individually and collectively, must be used to the utmost in the winning of the war."

"Just as soon as the British Empire found itself again called upon to defend the small nation in 1914, which, of course, meant that upon Canada lay a like responsibility, I declared without hesitation at that time my desire to see all our resources conscripted to national service for the purpose of winning the war, an opinion I reiterated from the floor of the House at the last session of the Legislature," recounted Hon. Mr. Pattullo.

The Minister declared with emphasis that the question has been fooled with long enough, and worse, it was still being fooled with. "The situation is not being met," declared the Minister of Lands. "The whole nation should be put to service in the national cause. Each individual might easily be placed in the particular niche he is best qualified to fill. It is only by such a process that the complete energy of the Dominion can be mobilized with anything like proper effect."

"Then again," he proceeded, "the entire wealth of the nation should be placed at the disposal of the national Government. Profits and prices should most certainly be subjected to regulation on such a basis that every available source of national revenue may be taxed in proportion to its limit of ability to contribute to the treasury."

DEATH OF SIR RICHARD M'BRIDE, AGENT GENERAL OF B. C. IN LONDON

Word has been received here in town of the death of Sir Richard McBride, the agent general of British Columbia in Great Britain. Sir Richard had been very seriously ill for some considerable time, before his demise, suffering from Bright's disease, and had been practically blind.

Born in 1870, in New Westminster, he was educated in the public and high schools there and took his degree in Dalhousie University in 1890. He was called to the Bar in 1892, and succeeded in entering the Provincial House in 1898 as member for Dewdney. In 1900 he was Minister of Mines, in 1902 was leader of the Opposition, and since the first of June, 1903, was Prime Minister of British Columbia, until about two years ago, when he went to London as Agent General of this province.

A man of engaging personality, and exceeding charm of speech, as well as undoubted ability, the success of his career was rapid and remarkable. He was a cabinet Minister at the age of thirty, and a young man of thirty-three years, was Premier. He took hold of affairs in British Columbia when they were at a low ebb in the province, and taking advantage of that "tide in the affairs of men" it led him on to fortune. His personal popularity was universal, and his geniality and bonhomie won for him hosts of friends of all shades of political opinion.

When the news arrived at the great Liberal convention at Winnipeg last night, Premier Brewster paid a glowing tribute to the many sterling qualities of the man. British Columbia will mourn the loss of one of her great sons.

BELGIAN CAVALRY CAPTURE U-BOAT

Paris, August 6.—The German submarine that ran ashore on the French coast, west of Calais, on Thursday, was not destroyed when its crew set fire to the gasoline tank, but was captured by a troop of Belgian cavalry, according to a despatch from Calais.

The stranded submarine was first sighted by a customs officer. He called upon some Belgian horsemen who were exercising nearby, to come to his help. They rode down the beach, the message reports, surrounded the U-boat and made prisoners of the crew.

SAYS BRITISH WILL WORK WITH HUNS

Amsterdam, August 3.—Philip Heineken, Director of the North German Lloyd Steamship Line, says, in an annual report of the company, that the British will be compelled to collaborate with the Germans whether or not they like it, but that until this stage is reached German industry, trade and shipping will undergo a hard struggle. Herr Heineken believes that on account of the diminution of tonnage, due to the submarine war, high freight rates will prevail for two or three years after the war, with consequent benefit to shipping interests. He predicts that for a time Germany will find it necessary to restrict imports to highly important articles, such as grain and other foodstuffs.

Herr Heineken is of the opinion that if the German government will give its assistance in this difficult period the ground lost during the war will be re-won.

The North German Lloyd and the Hamburg-American Line, at the request of the German government, says the report, have opened offices in Poland to enable residents of occupied territory to join their families in America. The offices are at Warsaw, Kovna and Myslowitz. Several hundred persons emigrate from Poland each month. The steamship companies, Herr Heineken says, derive no profit from this work, which is done only in the interest of patriotism. The steamship companies deliver the immigrants to steamships in Holland.

The management of twenty camps for war prisoners has been taken over by the North German Lloyd. The Bremerhaven workshops of the company, Herr Heineken adds, are busy turning out war materials for the government.

LUMBER FOR THE CITY

At the meeting of the city council held last evening, Ald. McClymont intimated that the city is practically out of lumber. The trial order for forty thousand feet of Hemlock which was placed with Queen Charlotte Island Mills, is still lying there on the wharf, owing to it not being convenient for the Grand Trunk steamer to bring it in, and as a result, the city is suffering.

Ald. McClymont said that by co-operation with other people, it would be possible to land fir here, wharfage paid, for $19 per thousand. By this means the city would save the difference between $19 and $23. The special lumber committee was continued in office with power to purchase up to 150,000 feet.

Just arrived, 250 tons of lump coal. Phone 116—Albert & McCaffery.
