THE WOMEN'S VOTE

Women's organizations in various parts of Canada have protested against the provisions on the "War Time Election Act," which discriminates against a large proportion of their sex. "We shall be very much surprised," says the Victoria Times, "if those protests are not echoed in every community in the Dominion, where equal suffrage has been an issue." Continuing, the Times says that the demand for the elimination of the obnoxious clause is not based upon party grounds, for it withholds the franchise from women of both parties who should be permitted to vote. It is based upon common justice, on the right of the women of Canada to recognition of the part they have played in the life of the country, not only in war but in peace.

The argument that this discrimination is justified by the title "War Time Election" is ridiculous as the title itself. The election which is about to be held is not a mere temporary expedient—until the end of the war only. It is not a departure from the constitutional procedure of this country, an experiment in democratic institutions. It is the vindication of the time-honored right of the Canadian people to say whether they are willing to have their business managed for five years more by the men who have been representing them in a Parliament which outlived its normal term a year ago. They will vote with an eye to not only the war but the years which will follow the war and to the solution of those grave domestic problems which will require the country's best ability and wisest statesmanship to avert disaster.

When Sir Robert Borden and Mr. Bennett addressed a public meeting in this city last December they eloquently eulogized the women of Canada for what they had done in the war and for their devotion to all that was best in the nation's life generally. By this they meant not only those women whose sons, fathers or brothers were at the front, but those who had engaged in war work in other ways. In Parliament a few months ago similar tributes were paid to Canada's womanhood. Now, the very men who uttered those fine, high-sounding phrases are deliberately disfranchising a large proportion of the women they praised so highly in the mistaken idea that by doing so they will gain some political advantage.

Germans and Austrians who became naturalized citizens of Canada prior to 1902 will be permitted to vote. So will Henri Bourassa and Armand Lavergne. So will Tancred Marsil and other agitators. So will the profiteers who are making millions out of the war and contributing next to nothing to the cost. Special facilities will be afforded political officers in England to cast their ballots. But many women, who will not be able to qualify under this law owing to circumstances over which they have no control, women who are rendering splendid service to the country—in many respects services even more important than are rendered by some of the elements now overseas—will be denied the franchise.

Some of the most enthusiastic and unselfish war-workers in this province, who, by the way, had fought for equal suffrage for years before the war, will be discriminated against by the "War-Time Election Act." Incidentally, it will be noted, significantly enough, that newspapers which profess to oppose political manoeuvring in the conduct of the country's business not only carefully refrain from criticizing this ugly specimen of class legislation but actually defend it.

PERSHING DESCENDED FROM ALSATIAN FAMILY

Paris, Sept. 12.—The report that the ancestors of Major-General Pershing, commander of the American forces in France, were an Alsatian family which emigrated to America in 1749 has met with immediate acceptance in France, where the general has made a wonderful impression on all, civil or military, who have come in contact with him. A Frenchman's idea of what an American general is in no way re-
