ENTHUSIASM RUNS HIGH AT FRED STORK'S MEETING

followed by the disbanding of the Earl Grey's, and finally an order for the return of the arms and equipment to Victoria, in March, 1914. On August 6, I received a telegram from the Militia Department who had evidently forgotten that the regiment had been disbanded. The telegram was addressed to Captain Alfred Stork, officer commanding, and on its authority I secured the names of over one hundred men, including my own, volunteering for overseas service. After I had replied to this wire, I received another addressed to Alfred Stork, stating that the first one had been sent me in error.

"After the regiment was disbanded, I received a bill from Victoria for shortages in equipment returned. This is one thing that cannot be helped in Militia regiments, and is usually met with by a reissue. I doubt if any other officer in Canada ever received a bill of this kind. Well, the Earl Grey's were reorganized, and equipments sent up and stored in the Merryfield block at a rental of $175 per month, and $3,000 worth was burnt. Will anyone ever be called upon to pay for that?

"I had hoped," continued Mr. Stork, "to go through this campaign without any mud slinging, but the gauge of the battle rests entirely with the man who penned these columns in today's paper. If that's what they want, let them come along with it. It will require more ability to defend some of these Tory regiment wreckers to keep them out of the penitentary than to write articles of this kind. I have the evidence. If that is what these people want, there is plenty for them to get.

"The first duty towards winning the war is to put Borden and his profiteering and grafting friends out of business," concluded Mr. Stork. "Laurier will go further, to make Canada do its share in the winning of the war by organizing Canada on a war basis. I will support Laurier. I am the Union Candidate; the right kind of Union—the Union of progressive forces of Labor and Liberalism."

Mr. Alex. Manson, M. P. P. The last speaker of the evening was Mr. Alex. Manson, M. P. P., who delivered a sparkling speech. He said that the issue had been restricted by the Borden Government to our feeling towards the war. Insinuations of disloyalty had been made regarding those who disagreed with the Borden policies, even regarding Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself. On the issues raised by the food situation and the manufacture of war material, the Borden Government had not so much to say. Sir Wilfrid's plan was constructive. His proposals were concrete and were for the benefit of the people of Canada as a whole, and were not framed for the immediate benefit of the profiteers and the big interests.

Mr. Manson scored the ultra patriots who claimed a monopoly in loyalty, for the Borden Unionists. What about Corporal Raymond Leighton? And Maxwell of West Kootenay? And Reilly of Alberta, and Reilly of Saskatchewan, and Lemieux? And Sir Allan Aylesworth? Were these sturdy Liberals disloyal?

Mr. Manson quoted the real opinions of even the Tory press regarding Sir Wilfrid Laurier, expressed in their quieter and saner moments, which were altogether at variance with the insinuations of the present day. He put the alternatives plainly up to the voters, Laurier or Borden, and what they stood for, and showed the duty of the people plainly towards the Empire, Canada and Prince Rupert.

The meeting was closed with the singing of the National Anthem.
