AFTER THE WAR

There are going to be many problems thrust upon humanity and more particularly the belligerent nations as the outcome of the present war in Europe. The necessity for dealing with these is being recognized in the chief nations concerned. Great Britain has had her Minister of Reconstruction for many months now, and a very busy man he is. Other of the fighting nations are also taking a long view with regard to the present situation.

Taking the number of men in the army together with those engaged in the production of munitions, their total number is placed at close to eleven millions. On the declaration of peace, these millions will find, to a great extent, their occupation gone. They cannot be re-absorbed back again into the ways of peace in a day, or a week. And in Canada the same conditions will have to be faced.

In one of the most Imperialistic of the British publications one writer has the following to say:—
"The social system in the British Isles, the capitalist system throughout the world, is badly in need of reconstruction. There must be a greater equalization of status, of wealth and of opportunity. There must be an end made of the system whereby wages are determined mainly by competition, whereby those who inherit wealth, and have only lent it for industrial purposes have the right to unlimited profit from the harder work or better methods of others. Capital is entitled to legitimate reward for the risks it takes and the enterprise it shows. But it ought not to carry with it unlimited power and the right to idleness. Every citizen ought to do a full day's work for a fair day's wage, and public spirit ought to supplant private profit as the motive power from one end of the national activity to the other.... These beneficent changes will come about only as the outcome of a real change of heart in all classes, and it is in the struggle for liberty in Europe that the spirit that will change the heart of society is being born."

In a publication avowedly Socialistic, such a statement would pass without comment, but appearing in a periodical whose aim is the furtherance of the Imperialistic ideals, it is significant of the manner in which our social evolution attracting attention in places where such a few years ago would hardly be looked for. "The Day" which was such a popular toast with the Kaiser and his officers may yet prove to have been the greatest blessing which our modern civilization could have had, although the price paid has been tremendous.

ESKIMO NEWSPAPER

Eskimos who fringe the Alaskan coast for thousands of miles recently celebrated the first anniversary of their paper, "The Eskimo," published in Nome by Walter C. Shields, superintendent of the northwest district, with the approval of Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education. It is said to be the "farthest north" newspaper in the world.

Supported largely by Eskimo subscriptions, it reaches every village in Alaska's ice-bound seaboard. Fur buyers from distant camps who have just arrived in Nome, say that this journal—the only printed means of communication the Eskimos have, is prized so highly that the copies are folded away for safe keeping in igloo Bibles.

Like the reader in the southland, the Eskimo is partial to sporting news. The excitement is intense when the issue appears with the news of the annual winter reindeer fairs, which are carnivals of reindeer and foot racing, sled lashing contests, and so forth.

"THE LOVE QUESTION"

This is one of the questions which have troubled mankind for centuries, and the solution is not yet. The troubles which arise through unrequited and misplaced love form the basis of the plot of the photoplay to be shown at the Westholme Theatre tonight. In "The Love Question," with Nance O'Neill in the stellar role, there is all the excitement of a revolution in a Latin state. There are sweethearts and counter sweethearts, and trouble and sorrow, and somnambulists, and imprisonments and burning at the stake. In fact, the play is one big thrill from start to finish. There is a splendid comedy, and the Gazette shows the reception accorded to General Pershing on his arrival in France, America's new U-boat chaser, the welcome of the city of Dublin to the Countess Marckievicz on her release from prison for her share in the Irish rebellion. The whole programme is a splendid one.
