THE ELECTION

There is as little excitement in the city this year as last over the municipal election. Time was when an election meant something which caused some stir, but in war time, it seems to be taken as a matter of course. The retiring council are not without credit for their year's labors. They have done a lot, and they have attempted more. They have cleared the ground for the accomplishment of several things, which it rests with their successors to pursue. Public opinion in many matters moves slowly. But the late council has done a great deal of educative work. They have brought the matter of waterfront for the city to the fore. They have raised the question of a municipal coal yard. They have convinced the community of the necessity of more electrical power, although they have not agreed as to the source of the new supply. They have also proved to the satisfaction of everyone that it is useless to pass any more resolutions or writing the government, or the G. T. P. regarding the getting of the drydock plant into commission for the building of ships.

The new council will benefit by the experience of this last one, the more so as there will in all likelihood be some of the old councillors re-elected. It has been found out that the city can enter into the coal business—if it likes. To do this will require a wharf with suitable bunkers, for which waterfront is necessary. They know they can procure waterfront, on certain terms.

The new council will also realize that their first duty is to take immediate steps, to which the action of the late council has led, to have a deputation of our fighting citizens sent to Ottawa, to have the curse removed from this city, in the shape of the pall of idleness hovering over the equipment at Hay's Cove. That is their first and bounden duty.

With a national government appointed to office in Ottawa, who may possibly and will most probably regard matters from a different aspect from the last government, the people of Prince Rupert should be able to lay their case before a government who will look at the matter from a business point of view.

It cannot be regarded as good business anywhere, not even in Ottawa, to keep an investment of over two millions lying idle, without bringing in a return. The more so when ships, more ships, and still more ships are required. The government applied for loans, and Victory loans to win the war. They did not ask the people for all these millions to tie it up. The sooner the millions invested in the equipment of our drydock plant are put to work for the winning of the war, the sooner the war will be ended, and the sooner Prince Rupert will be utilizing her resources to this end. It's got to come sometime, and there is no time better than the present, nor any time when activity there was more needed.

With the way cleared for them, the new council can get right down to business, and have a meeting of every resident in the city to choose that that deputation, which it will be necessary to send east. This is not a matter for the city council alone. It is not a matter for the Board of Trade alone. Nor yet of both of these institutions together. It is a matter for the whole population of this city. With every resident in the city behind them, as well as every public and semi-public body, the deputation would be able to speak with some authority, and their hands would be strengthened. If we have to fight the whole of Canada, and even be turned down finally, we will then have had the satisfaction of having done all that within us lay for that which is reasonably ours. But we won't be turned down, if we get after this thing strongly enough. Therefore, let's get after it.

bacon factory came out on strike on account of the "working conditions." Evidently the applying of salt and water is equally unsatisfactory as paying for it.

British aviators raid the important city of Karlsruhe by broad daylight. They assail the southernmost parts of Germany one day and the next evening carry out another raid, doing equally great damage to cities further west. Germany is just beginning to get a taste of what air raids are like. And there's more to follow.

The Bolshevik government are discussing peace with Germany, although they can represent only Petrograd, and not all of that, either.

The waste of all varieties of fish taken by the halibut fishing boats is now attracting attention in other parts of Canada. When they want that fish had enough back east arrangements will probably be made for its purchase, thus creating a certain market. If the fishermen could dispose of these varieties they would not throw them off the hooks back into the sea again.

The suggestion has been made that the unsuccessful candidates at the municipal election ought to be constituted in a "second chamber." If the idea could be operated the other way from the Senate, or the House of Lords, and action accelerated, instead of retarded, it might be useful.

One of our four mayoralty candidates will be feeling happier than the other three before the night's out.
