Mr. D. H. Morrison has returned to the city from Sitka, where he has been engaged in the erection of buildings for the Booth Fisheries, Ltd. He finds Sitka to be a quaint old town. A great number of the buildings date from the time of the Russian occupation, and their architecture is in the Russian style.

"THE CRYSTAL GAZER"

Miss Fanny Ward is the star to be filmed at the Westholme this evening. She is one of the favorites in Prince Rupert. The story of this photodrama is a great one, and gives the star an opportunity for the great powers. In this play the case of an actress sacrificing herself for her art is exemplified. There is a terrific fight scene in this photodrama and in the course of the filming Miss Ward's shoulder was accidentally dislocated. With the exception of a sharp scream, which is plainly shown on the screen, Miss Ward gave no indication of her injury until the scene was completed, when she collapsed. All work on this picture had to be suspended for three weeks, until the patient recovered. There are two fine comedies also on tonight's programme, which from their quality, should be well received.

RUSSIA TO ANNUL ALL FOREIGN LOANS

(Special to The Daily News).
Petrograd, Jan. 19.—The executive of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates have determined to put before the Constituent Assembly a decree passed by their council of commissioners, providing for the annulment of all state loans, the annulment of all guarantees given by the government by paying over loans advanced by institutions, and companies, and the annulment, without exception, of all foreign loans.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS LEAVES BERLIN COLD

Amsterdam.—Public feeling in Berlin is not at all elated over the Russian peace negotiations. According to the Berliner Tageblatt, most of the Berliners remain sceptical, and do not believe in the lasting qualities of the Maximalist Government. They imagine, to use the words of Schiller, that "it will be very difficult to build a hut on the lava which the mountain has cast up during the earthquake." No feverish optimism has taken hold of the nation as has been occasioned twenty times since war broke out by spurious peace rumors; and this time in particular, when there is some slight ground for hope, no one has been shaken out of their every-day stolidity.

Thieves in Clover.

"One calamity is very noticeable in Germany just now," says the Frankfurter Zeitung, "namely, that the art of stealing is flourishing, and more than one long-fingered gentleman is making his fortune by seizing possessions other than his own. The watchfulness of the police has necessarily been slackened, and property cannot be so strictly guarded as before. It is a well known fact that the thief who before the war slunk about in terror with his stolen jewels, and found some difficulty in getting rid of them, now finds no such embarrassment. The thief of today lives like a lord, and makes huge profits off stolen foodstuffs, for most people buy without bothering to ask whence the sausage roll or the butter or the flour has originated. Most of the foodstuffs stolen from private houses have been unlawfully hoarded, and the owners are thus afraid to prosecute the thieves.

Sliding Forbidden.

Snow has lost all its charm for the German children this year, because all sliding has been officially forbidden. The authorities give two reasons for this order, namely—that sliding is very wearing for the boots and shoes, which will require to be carefully saved this winter, if they are to last till spring, and that since the street lighting has had to be stopped such slides on the pavements are a great danger to foot passengers, and slides on the main road are equally dangerous for horses.
