COALS TO NEWCASTLE

When being loaded for one of her recent trips to the Queen Charlotte Islands, among the other freight which the steamer took from here was sawn lumber. Taking sawn lumber to the Queen Charlottes, where lumbering is the chief industry is anomalous. On a par with this is the Atlantic codfish and herring which are to be seen offered for sale in the stores of Prince Rupert. The futility of carrying coals to Newcastle is proverbial, and the bringing of fish to Prince Rupert is about as bad, or rather, ought to be. This is the more evident at the present time, when the energies of the railway companies are so much in demand.

If it pays the fish curers to send cured fish all this distance from the Atlantic seaboard, it ought surely to be a paying proposition to cure and salt these same varieties of fish right on the coast where they are consumed. Economically, there can be little justification for hauling food stuffs over three thousand miles for consumption at a point where it is possible for similar fish to be landed fresh. There is room for a very great extension of the fish curing industry right on this coast, which should mean a very great deal to the prosperity of the province.

STRINGS

One of the noticeable things about this part of the British Columbian coast is the manner in which former residents are always inclined to come back. This place, somehow or other, seems to have strings upon the majority of those who have once lived here. Whether this will remain a fact after the city becomes built up, with skyscrapers and multitudinous street car lines, with innumerable factories and shipyards and so forth and so on, as imagination has had for the last eight years or so, or otherwise remains a matter for the future to decide. Speaking lately with one who had been away for some time, and who had come back, the enquiry was put as to the reason which was found to just because Rupert was Rupert. There is something potent in the attraction which this city holds for its citizens, whether temporarily sojourning elsewhere or not. While apparently inexplicable, it means a whole lot. It matters not that when here, the weather and Jupiter Pluvius particularly may be cursed at times, and sometimes, too, with vigor, still the attractiveness remains with Rupert's absent citizens.

QUEBEC

The French-Canadians in Quebec have been coming in for some rather severe criticism during the past few weeks over the resolution which was to have been and was introduced into the Quebec Provincial Parliament upon the subject of the withdrawal from confederation. As at first given out, all that could be understood from the dispatches received was that Quebec wanted to retire from her connection with the Dominion. And on that account, the citizens of Quebec had many hard things said about them.

It now transpires, however, that the resolution was a very different thing. It really meant that Quebec was willing to retire from her association with the other provinces, if they considered that Quebec's presence an obstacle to the unity and development of the Dominion. This resolution put the matter up to the other provinces, which is a very different thing from that suggested by the first dispatch from Quebec on this question. It is pointed out that "whoever prepared the former dispatches did so with a regrettable indifference to precision, or with a still more regrettable desire to create misunderstanding and prejudices."

THE REAL FACTS

The real fact as to in what manner the Dominion of Canada can help the allies in the further prosecution of the war is not yet made evident. So far, the Union Government which was elected largely on account of the electorate's desire to

Insomnia Cured Without Drugs

Internal Bathing Relieves the Cause

If you do not sleep there is always some cause. Don't start dosing with drugs. Nerves can't consume them. Believe the cause and a good, sound sleep will be the result.

The system cannot be right if the Colon or large intestine is not kept clean and free from all waste matter. Bathe internally if you want perfect health.

Mr. F. C. Voigt, Rapid City, Man., writes:—"For several years I suffered from Indigestion, Nervous Debility, Insomnia and Constipation. Had no appetite, and doctors did not expect I would live throughout the winter. Your book interested me. I got a 'J. B. L. Cascade' and in a few days obtained remarkable results. I now sleep and enjoy my meals better than for years before. I regard the 'J. B. L. Cascade' as a Godsend to me."

The 'J. B. L. Cascade' is a perfected appliance for Internal Bathing, invented by Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York, and has been the means of restoring thousands to perfect health. It is shown and explained by Cyril H. Orme, Druggist, cor. 3rd Ave. and 6th St., who will be pleased to give you an interesting book called "The What, Why, The Way of Internal Bathing" on request. Ask for it.

send reinforcements to the boys in the trenches, seem to think that now the production of foodstuffs is the first duty of Canada, even more so than the despatch of further soldiers. One fact remains, that Canada cannot send her manhood to France, and at the same time utilize her every energy in the production of more wheat. Before the 17th of December, the Borden government could see nothing else for Canada to do than to send reinforcements to the front. The necessity was urgent. Anyone who called attention to the equally great, and perhaps more essential duty of producing more food was dubbed "traitor" and other equally generous appellations.

The urgency of the need of these reinforcements is apparently past, and the urgency now is for foodstuffs. The issue of compulsory military service was apparently wrong. It should have been compulsory agricultural service. And the latter service may prove yet to be the greater which Canada can render to the empire. If the need for food, however, proves, as it most likely will, and which was pertinently pointed out at the time, to be greater than the need for more soldiers, Sir Robert Borden will be shown to have been a poorer judge of the national necessity than a man in his position has any right to be.
