PACIFIC FISHING

Encouraged by their success in the past, and apparently justified by the knowledge they have acquired through their explorations in the surrounding waters, the Canadian Fish and Cold Storage Company are again having their steam trawler got ready for sea. The vessel is at the present moment being overhauled and fitted up with her trawling gear, and will go out in a day or two after the ground fish, which are so numerous in these waters, and which up till last year, have never been fished commercially.

There is a steady and growing market for these flat fish, wherever they have been tried, and at the present moment, the ground work is being laid for a very extensive business. Anyone who has ever visited the great fishing ports of Great Britain could not fail to be impressed with the tremendous number of steam trawlers in commission there. At certain times, they can be counted by the hundred in the larger ports and it is a sight well worth seeing. To a large extent they fish for and catch the same varieties of fish as are available in the waters of the Pacific ocean, right here at our doors. The only difficulty which Prince Rupert has to contend with is that of distance from the markets.

In Great Britain the trains carrying fish have the right of way over even passengers, and they whiz from the northern ports with their supplies for the great London market at a speed averaging over sixty miles an hour, and at that there is hardly a port in Great Britain that is more than twelve hours away from London. Here in Canada, however, conditions are somewhat different. In the first place, the trains have not got the speed of sixty miles an hour, and the markets are very much further away. Distance and time are the great obstacles. As these ground fish do not carry so well, not having the same size as halibut, their logical market is the nearest one. This market is to be found in the towns on the prairie in the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and even in Manitoba.

There is no doubt of the increasing popularity of these varieties of fish, and as each new consumer becomes a regular buyer, as they are almost bound to do, with the ever-increasing scarcity and increasing high price of meat products, the increasing demand for these ground fish is bound to affect the number of trawlers operating on this coast.

Although there is but the one trawler operating at this present time, it has been proved that the finest fishing grounds in the world lie close by, and within a very short space of time trawlers operating out of Prince Rupert may become the rule, instead of being the exception as at present. There is no doubt that the halibut banks are being depleted of their supplies of fish—this is to be expected. And with the increasing popularity of these other varieties, the continuous demand for halibut, and only halibut, may not continue. The larger supplies of these other kinds is bound to affect the high price which has been obtained for the big fish.

With the most extensive and varied fisheries lying right contiguous to this port, and with handling facilities sufficient for the prompt dispatch of the catches, the time is not far distant when "fish specials" will thunder their way east daily carrying the silver harvest of the sea to the inland towns.

Constipation Cured in His 78th Year without Drugs

Did you ever know any person who was permanently cured of Constipation by taking drugs of any kind? Drugs seem to assist Nature at the time, but as time goes on larger doses are necessary until the trouble becomes chronic.

Internal Bathing is the only real cure for Constipation. It keeps the Colon or Lower Intestine free from all accumulation. Soon the system performs its regular functions unaided, and there is no further trouble.

Mr. A. McLean, of Conger Lumber Co., Parry Sound, writes:—"I have been troubled with Constipation for the last 35 or 40 years, and could not pass one day without taking medicine. I have used the 'J. B. L. Cascade' since getting it 21 days ago, with wonderful results. Will recommend any person to use it."

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York, invented and perfected the 'J. B. L. Cascade' for Internal Bathing, which is today the only efficient means of accomplishing the desired result. Dr. Tyrrell has published an interesting book on Internal Bathing, called 'Why Man of Today is Only 50 Per Cent. Efficient,' which can be had free for the asking of Cyril H. Orme, Druggist, cor. 3rd Ave. and 6th St. He will also be pleased to show and explain the 'J. B. L. Cascade' to you.

STIRRING RECEPTION GIVEN SARDINIANS

Sons of Crimean Veterans Prove Worthy Sons of Their Fighting Sires.

Italian Headquarters in Northern Italy, Feb. 15.—The Sassari Brigade of young Sardinians, which distinguished itself by cutting its way up the Col di Rosso last Tuesday, came out of the trenches yesterday. It was an event which stirred the neighboring country, and the peasantry, with children and babies, came from fifty miles around to see these young heroes. The city was gay with flags, the walls were covered with posters, "Hail! Sassari heroes!" and children carried flowers to strew along the route of their march.

The brigade marched twenty miles from its trenches, and it was an inspiring sight as the boyish-looking soldiers came down the road. Their helmets and uniforms were still splashed with the mud of the big fight, but they marched proudly and appeared happy over the enthusiastic tribute.
