 We have examined the above Balance Sheet with the Books in London and the Certified Returns from the Branches, and we report to the Shareholders that we have obtained all the information and explanations we have required and that in our opinion, the transactions of the Bank which have come under our notice have been within the powers of the Bank. As required by Section 56, Clause 19, of the Bank Act of Canada, we visited the Chief Office (Montreal) of the Bank and checked the cash and verified the securities and found that they agreed with the entries in the books of the Bank with regard thereto. We further report that, in our opinion, the above Balance Sheet is properly drawn up so as to exhibit a true and correct view of the state of the Bank's affairs according to the best of our information and the explanations given to us and as shown by the books and returns.

And in it he plays the male lead. As "The Blue Streak" a notorious bandit of the Western mountains, he is first seen as the dissipated son of the president of an Express Company. Coming to his father to make a touch, the parent is disgusted with his son. "I'd rather you'd take it as they did when I was an express messenger than come sponging. Here's your last. Get out," says the fond parent. The weak youth refuses the money and leaves. Thus was created "The Blue Streak," a dead shot bandit. The story is brimful of incident, and is tense with excitement all through. Then in addition to this, there is a two-reel Fox comedy, of the kind which have taken so well for some weeks past, making altogether one of the best programs.
