Skeena River Unseemingly Quiet—Death Visits Waterfront Ranks—Halibut Landings

Instead of buzzing with activity on the sockeye pack as is the usual thing at this time of year, the canneries of the Skeena River today are dark and quiet, owing to the complete tie-up caused by the strike of the fishermen against the price of 27 1-2c per fish offered by the canners for sockeye, and people coming in from the Skeena River during the course of the past few days.

report that it is a pitiful sight to behold indeed. Without going into any discussion of the merits of either side of the case, it seems regrettable, indeed, that two weeks of apparently good fishing, such as there is reported to have been available, should have been allowed to go for naught, particularly in days such as these when there is such a general dearth of industrial activity everywhere. While precious time and earnings of more or less questioned value may have been already lost, the best that can be hoped now for is a speedy settlement of existing differences so that work may be resumed and at least a semblance of the good old days be restored.

Engine Satisfactory

The 100 h.p. four-cylinder Fairbanks-Morse diesel engine recently installed at Vancouver in the local seineboat Zenardi, owned by Gammon & Watts, is reported to be functioning very satisfactorily. It is an open head type motor turning a three-blade Coolidge propeller at 44-inch diameter and 34-inch pitch 400 revolutions per minute.

Halibut Landings

Halibut landings at the port of Prince Rupert for the 1932 season up to and including June 30 totalled 6,208,350 pounds as compared with 7,345,740 pounds at a corresponding date last year. Canadian landings up to the end of June this season amounted to 2,105,750 pounds as compared with 2,959,900 pounds last year at the same time. American landings this year had reached a total of 4,102,600 pounds as against 4,385,840 pounds last season at the corresponding date.

During the week of June 25-30, landings were light with a total of only 260,600 pounds of which 76,000 pounds was brought in by Canadian vessels and 194,600 pounds by American. Owing to continued low price conditions, only a few of the larger Canadian boats were still operating.

Prices during the week stood at about the same level as the week previous. The high price of the week for Canadian fish was 5.7c and 2c which the Signal received for 19,000 pounds and the low 3.5c and 2c paid the Lysekil for 23,000 pounds. The high price for American fish was 3.8c and 3c paid the T551 for 3,200 pounds and the low 4c and 2c which several boats received.

"All indications are that the sockeye run on the Skeena River in 1932 will be a small one and, in the interests of conservation, it is recommended that only a very small catch be made," says an official forecast of the 1932 season by Dr. W. A. Clemens of the Nanaimo Biological Station. Neither is the outlook for the run on the Naas River this year good, says Dr. Clemens, who recommends extreme care to avoid complete annihilation of the sockeye in that area. As for Rivers Inlet, there are no grounds to expect anything more than a fair run of fish this year, the scientist predicts.

Twice during the past week has the local waterfront had to mourn the loss by death of well known figures.

The sudden and tragic demise on Sunday morning of Claude Kirkendall, popular and esteemed manager of Booth Fisheries, was a matter for general expressions of regret. To those bereaved the sympathy of all will be extended. The high regard in which the husband and father was held and the many testimonials to his worth that have been voiced should prove lasting comfort for them.

The passing on Tuesday of Capt. Harry Kohrt, pioneer gasboat operator and fishermen of Prince Rupert, while not unexpected as he had been ailing for some considerable time, was also a matter for regret of many friends of deceased. Capt. Kohrt was one of the real old landmarks along the local waterfront and, in his death, a familiar figure is removed.

Capt. Ivor Wick was in port from North Island early this week with his trolling boat Seminole. He reported fishing not too bad at North Island. Some have been doing fairly well while, with others, it has not been so good.

IN THE LETTER BOX

RETORE COURTEOUS

Editor, Daily News:
I beg the use of your valuable space to reply to "Taxpayer." The writer prefaces his conclusions with such terms as—"I hear," "I understand," and "I have been told." The revealed vagueness of the writer's knowledge on the matter cannot be excused by his assumption of facetiousness.
Can the writer point to a solitary instance in which the men at Cloyah Bay have received, or even asked for clothing, from the people of this city?
Behind the brave attempt at levity in "Taxpayer's" letter a note of trepidation is apparent.
Can it be that Mr. Heavy Taxpayer realizes that there is a connection between the idleness of the Bums, Hoboes, and Tramps and the fact that the writer's income has vanished, and he can no longer add to his investments?
Taxpayer closes his quaint diatribe with an appeal to the Editor to get after the "High and Mighty" for something or other.
I suggest that Mr. Heavy Taxpayer resort to prayer as a way out of his difficulties.
It will be equally as efficacious and have at least the merit of not bringing into question the honesty and manhood of his fellow members of society who may not be heavy taxpayers.

J. M. DUNN,
Mem. of Prince Rupert

CLOYAH BAY WORKER REPLIES TO TAXPAYER

Editor, Daily News:
With reference to "Taxpayer's" letter in your issue of Wednesday, Every once in a while an indignant tax-payer arises and vents his intolerance at things in general—but why poke at the men in Cloyah Bay camp. Is he lacking in conviction and courage in taking refuge behind a signature applying to several hundreds. Taxpayer does not represent everybody's opinion—otherwise Heaven help the working man, and I know that public opinion is at heart friendly to the unemployed.

IS DRAMA OF THRILLS

Lots of Action, Spectacular Scenery and Fine Acting Featured in "The Rainbow Trail"

A fast-paced drama, replete with thrills, romance and humorous moments is "The Rainbow Trail," which is the week-end feature on the screen of the Capitol Theatre here. George O'Brien, popular western player, has the leading role in the picture which has more movement and less talk than some talking pictures.

The film was photographed in the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River and contains some of the most gorgeous and breath-taking scenery that has ever been brought to the screen. The sound effects are also notable, particularly the mighty thunder of the great river echoing through the cavernous gorges.

The story revolves around the desperate attempt of a lone cowboy to rescue three people from a hidden valley in the centre of the renegade section of the old west where they had secluded themselves years before. Development of the plot presents many hair-raising thrills.

Cecilia Parker plays the part of the girl who is the main object of the search. She is a new, beautiful and talented actress. Minna Gombell, Roscoe Ates and J. M. Kerrigan take leading parts.

and public improvements to be done, and unless our law-givers devise an effective liaison whereby the workers can enjoy a reasonable share of the fruits of their life by enforced inactivity, I can see no termination of the present state of affairs.

In conclusion, Mr. Editor, I would like to state that "Taxpayer's" only truthful statement is that we are willing to work. We are willing to work providing conditions and wages are all right, and will build highways and byways from here to points East and back again.

Thanking you for your permission to reply,
A man from camp.
W. A. HOGG.
