And just to think that we have not come to our longest day yet! Can anyone tell when it is time to go to bed these days? Or does the sun ever go down at all?

Mrs. Donald McClellan received the word that her husband is at present engaged behind the lines assisting in the defensive work of the Allies. He is identified with the Engineers.

Yesterday afternoon quite a large number took advantage of the opportunity of going over to the salt lakes, as the Alice B. is in commission again. The water was fine and good accommodation would make this spot very attractive.

Mr. G. E. Gulick, formerly Swift's representative in this city, is now in training in Texas. He reports that the weather is very hot and that he would enjoy a bit of the freshness off of the hills around Rupert. His wife is with her mother in Michigan.

The songs which the children sing at the Baptist church on Sunday are songs which have been used at a children's anniversary in the old land where so much is made of children's day. In some places it is quite a common thing for schools to celebrate their sixtieth or seventieth anniversary, and quite recently the children of one school celebrated the one hundred and eighteenth anniversary. You will enjoy the children in these songs.

What a disappointment! To be ready for something with colored glasses, and to laboriously smoke glass in order to view the eclipse, and then—ah then, to wait and wait, and eventually to give it up. Well that is just what happened at Vancouver. For was it not cloudy there in that fair city of the south? And did not the multitude suffer just this, that they had to get their reports of the eclipse from Prince Rupert and other cities where the sky was fair? It is said that the next eclipse is in 1945, so prepare now to welcome a delegation from the south to witness the spectacle of the heavens.

Since work was started on getting airplane lumber from British Columbia spruce the Queen Charlotte Islands have rapidly come to the front, according to A. E. Munn, who is associated with two companies cutting airplane spruce at Cumshewa Inlet. Although these camps have been opened but two months, twenty donkey engines are working with a force of 250 men and logs which will scale four million feet of airplane spruce have been put into the water. Mr. Munn says if some of the white pine sawyers of the east who are used to getting all the clear and straight lumber from the logs, were brought here they would be valuable in the spruce mills.
