undertaken to facilitate the increased settlement of the province. It is recognized by the members of the Cabinet that at no time in the history of British Columbia has the need for more agricultural population been more insistent than it is today.

Mindful, however, of the mistakes of the past there will be no programme formulated which will not fulfill the intent of the Government. In spite of the known resources to the north country the Premier himself desires to know exactly what the conditions are, what methods may be introduced to secure the fullest possible expansion from railway development completed and projected.

Trade Lost to Province.

One of the prominent factors of the situation in the Peace River country is that its trade is now going to Edmonton. This is a phase of the question which is of considerable concern to the province, and means for a remedy will form no small part in any programme which may result by reason of the Ministerial trip. With the proper opening up of the Peace River country it is believed that there will be greater attraction for the settler from south of the International boundary line and as its potentialities become more widely known the much desired settlement in the vast areas now unpopulated and uncultivated, will be a certain consequence.

Should Be Fruitful.

The Government has now settled down to the attention of the many pressing questions before it, and with the determined intent to expand its activities in an endeavor to relieve the province of its huge financial difficulties, the forthcoming trip to the producing grounds of the north is expected to have satisfactory results.—Victoria Times.
