Fair Opens,
All are Happy.

This is the opening day of the fair, and the whole city is given up to enjoyment, with the exception of those whose work it is to cater for the needs of the visitors. The town is full of people and it is the earnest desire of the residents here that they will enjoy themselves. The News joins with the rest of the citizens in extending a hearty welcome and trusts that everyone will have a splendid time.

The exhibition is but a small part of the entertainment. The games and sports and the meeting of neighbors and old friends is three parts of the fun.

Must Get Ready
To Pay Our Way.

While everyone is happy and everyone is having a riotous time it must not be forgotten that the fighting goes on as usual in France and Flanders. It must not be forgotten that cash is required to keep up the campaign and that within a very short time a Victory Loan campaign will be on and everyone will be asked to do his or her bit to keep things going until the Hun is beaten so badly that he will not again dare to raise his head, at least in our time.

The News would not in any way interfere with the time of relaxation, but at the same time the serious things of life have to be remembered and war is the most serious of all things. While we dance and sing and frolic the boys fight and suffer and die. We for our part must pay and pay and pay. Let us bear this in mind and not go to excesses at a time when the money is needed so badly to carry on the war and bring it to a successful conclusion.

Wonderful Exhibits

Show Resources of District.

While at the time of writing the exhibits at the fair are not all in place some of them are most surprising. From east and west, north and south come products which are an indication of what the district can grow. Some of these are of such a degree of excellence that they are a great surprise to those who have never lived here and who have not yet been able to grasp the possibilities of the place.

This exhibition idea is a wonderful educator, not only to strangers but also to the residents, many of whom live in somewhat narrowed circles and are not aware what is going on around them. That is one of the complaints of the residents of the outside districts. People become concentrated and narrow in their outlook, but an exhibit of this kind tends to broaden their vision.

The New Drive
Against Bulgaria.

Nobody seems to have thought of Serbia as a factor in the war of late. So many of the brave men of the little kingdom were killed by the Huns and so complete was their demoralization at the time when all the force of the enemy was thrown against them, that it is a wonder they have been able to come back. They seem to have done so, however, with some purpose, as was recounted in the dispatches of yesterday. The Greeks too have rallied to the cause and the result of the long period of recuperation and training has been the complete overthrow of the Bulgars at the first onslaught. With a steady advance from the Macedonian front, with the Russians giving trouble on the east, with the Italians firm, and with the Allies driving forward on the west, the Huns are in a bad way and it is little wonder that they are howling for peace. But they do not want it badly enough yet. "Fight on," must be the cry until they are ready to throw up their hands, throw over the Hohenzollerns, and form themselves into a peaceable republic which will be freed from all the dangers of militarism.

More Accommodation
Needed for Visitors.

There is still more need of accommodation for visitors to the fair. It is commonly reported that a number of people have rooms but refuse to allow them to be used by visitors. To take that position is hardly being loyal to the city. There is a great need just now and everyone should do his little bit to try to help out. The managers of the fair have done everything possible to induce visitors to come, and now it is the clear duty of all citizens to back them up and provide, so far as possible, for the needs of those who are here.

"The food crisis is grave and urgent, beyond possibility of exaggeration."—Sir Robert Borden

City and Town Labor
Must Save
The Food Situation

THE heart of the food production problem is labor, and the heart of the labor problem is the city dweller. City people must produce food if Canada is to do her full duty in support of our soldiers and Allies.

Men who are needed on farms must come from the cities and towns—there is no other source. The Provincial Departments of Agriculture co-operating with the Canada Food Board, can place thousands of men on good farms in this Province. They are needed at once.

Those who remain at home must also Grow Food

A War Garden will not excuse the man whose rightful place this year is on a farm. But War Garden service is needed from those who can do no more.

Every pound of home-grown vegetables, produced on city land by city labor, will be a positive addition to the food supply. Home Garden and Vacant Lot cultivation will leave the farmers free to grow more food for export.

The vegetable garden offers an opportunity for service to men whose circumstances make it impossible for them to work on a farm, to women, to boys and girls—to city people generally.

Be a Food Producer This Year

If there is a garden or vacant lot movement in your community, associate yourself with it. If no organization exists, do what you can to interest your neighbours in the War Garden campaign. Write to your Provincial Department of Agriculture for pamphlets on gardening and additional information.
