JACK VENABLES GOES TO VANCOUVER BRANCH

Jack Venables left yesterday on the steamer Prince Rupert, after spending five years in the brokerage business in this city connected with the firm of G. W. Nickerson Co. He has always been a persistent booster for this city and will be missed.

The curious thing about Mr. Venables leaving is that it seems to be a case of Prince Rupert invading Vancouver. The firm with which he is connected recently opened a branch office in Vancouver and he will work there in connection with that office.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan J. Smith are in the city for a few days, being on their way back to Surf Inlet, where Mr. Smith is master mechanic. Mrs. Smith is going to Surf Inlet as a bride, and her husband is receiving the congratulations of his friends.

As a sequel to the visit paid by the police to the Masquerade ball at the close of the fair, six defaulters under the provisions of the Military Service Act left last evening under charge of Corporal Chester to take up their military duties. Several others were fined $20 each for not carrying the necessary certificates.

It is expected that F. W. Holler of the Surf Inlet Mines, will be enabled to leave the Vancouver hospital today. He has been there for some time now and his many friends will be glad to learn that his sight is practically all right again. There were grave doubts several weeks ago as to whether this could be accomplished.

The death occurred yesterday at the hospital of Ambrose Morris, a workman at the Cold Storage, who came here a short time ago from Granby. Prior to that he had lived in Dawson but he was born at the Island of Newfoundland. He leaves a sister, Mrs. Anna Grant at Pass Island, Newfoundland. Deceased was a member of the Oddfellows order.

BANQUET GIVEN JACK VENABLES

Popular Citizen Gets Send-off at Self's Cafe Before Leaving for Vancouver.

J. F. Venables who left for Vancouver last night was, before leaving, the guest of honor at a war-time banquet at Self's Cafe, when over forty guests sat down to a delicious repast. All were enthusiasts and jolly good fellows and all had taken some more or less prominent part in the work of the fall fair.

Pretty menu cards were printed, which gave among other interesting information, a list of those invited, as follows:—Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Venables, Mr. and Mrs. George Frizzell, Mr. and Mrs. Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. E. Shockley, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. W. Tillman, Mr. and Mrs. A. Ellice, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Self, Mr. and Mrs. Tabrum, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. A. Ackenberg, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. D. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Westaway, Mr. and Mrs. H. Taylor, W. Burrows, R. E. Campbell, H. F. Pullen, W. Keig, J. D. McAuley, A. Hepburn, H. Lipsett, Don Yelf, D. Thomson, J. Currie, and J. A. Bradbury, and Messrs. Ripley, Budden, Robarge and Minnis.

General Regrets.

In a neat speech Mr. Stuart conveyed the regrets of the company on his leaving to Mr. Venables, who was the originator of the carnival idea. Without it the fair would not have been worth anything, and the success of the event was largely due to Mr. Venables. They also owed a lot to the merchants who had helped out by providing a speed boat to race the "Wayward Girl." In 1919 he hoped they would have a faster boat.

Mr. Stuart drew attention to the fact that of 500 members of the Association they were unable to get a quorum. He asked all to come on Tuesday and show some interest in the fair next year. Mr. Venables had always been ready to help and he went away carrying with him the appreciation of the Board of Directors and all others who had worked with him. They wished him all success.

Guest Replies.

In replying, Mr. Venables said he had done but little, yet it was good to know that little was appreciated. Had it not been for the support he had got, nothing could have been done. A good deal of the credit should go to the young ladies who had worked hard. It was their efforts which had made the fair a success. They were the whole attraction and wherever they went the crowds followed.

In 1919, Mr. Venables said, he hoped there would be greater interest taken in the water sports. He did not see why a good speed boat should not be built here. He hoped everyone would do all they could to help next year's fair and he thanked all for the help they had given and for the nice send-off.

The arrangements for the banquet were under the personal supervision of Mrs. Self and everything was first rate.

"RIMROCK JONES" IS AT WESTHOLME TONIGHT

The Westholme Theatre has secured for tonight "Rimrock Jones," Wallace Reid's latest Paramount production, a picture which will appeal to everyone from one angle or another. There is the rough, wild and woolly stuff that delights and thrills school girls, and there is the society life and scenes in New York's famous hotels which appeal to the older women, as well as the always strong, virile characterization work of Wallace Reid. As "Rimrock Jones," the Arizona copper miner, he adventures through the photoplay, winning out in the end with the help of pretty Ann Little, who plays the part of Mary Fortune, a deaf stenographer.
