DAILY EDITION. Friday, Sept. 27, 1918.

Editor Has a Large Congregation.

The average clergyman in Prince Rupert has a congregation of a few hundreds once or twice a week. The editor of The News has a congregation of about four thousand every day to which he preaches through the columns of the paper. The newspaper loses in personal contact, but it gains in the numbers it touches and the frequency of appeal.

The mission of the newspaper is to provide news, but incidentally it has the opportunity to preach and the curious thing is that people like to read the preachments. Often the message is but a weak one, for it is scribbled off hurriedly, yet many people read it faithfully and perhaps criticize the point of view or scoff at the sentiment expressed. Now and then the views of another person are adopted and sent out as the gospel. That is done when it is considered the other person has an interesting message.

Opinion Versus Statement of Fact.

There was a time when the newspapers were purchased for the editorials. That was a long time ago. Today not many people buy a paper in order to read opinions. They prefer the record of facts rather than inferences drawn therefrom. Still there are hundreds of people who take pleasure and perhaps profit from reading the opinions of others. That is true here as elsewhere, unless many people tell what is not true.

There are some wiseheads who remark: "Why does he not get out and do things himself instead of always telling us what we should do." The work of the editor is to stimulate others rather than to do himself. Usually he is too busy to do anything except to preach. Often the things that are advocated may not be for the best interest of the community but at any rate there is stimulated either co-operation or opposition and either is better than stagnation.

Should Be More Than Fifty per cent True.

If a writer is true more than half the time his writings are worth while. If he is over fifty per cent untrue he is a failure. Truth is very largely a point of view and it is always possible that what one man considers true another considers false and to him it is false. There are so many subjects that might be discussed in newspaper editorials with profit and pleasure and yet, owing to the desire not to offend readers, they are omitted. There are questions of religion, of sociology and philosophy; there are questions of ethics which are often debatable. Yet some of these subjects are dangerous for a newspaper to discuss because so many people look on them as vital questions which should not be lightly approached.

Exhibition Building As a Gymnasium.

At a recent meeting of the Agricultural Association it was suggested by Alderman Smith that the Exhibition Building might be used as a gymnasium during the winter months. It sounded like a splendid suggestion. It is a large building and if fitted up for the purpose and properly strengthened it would make a fine gym. It is not used except once or twice a year, so why not let it earn its cost?

These are days of conservation. To use the exhibition building for a gymnasium would be one of the best bits of conservation that Prince Rupert could undertake. At present it is a waste. It is not drawing down dividends. It is bad enough to have the church buildings empty all the week and the schools on Sundays, but to have a building empty and unused almost throughout the year is the grossest kind of waste. Especially so is that true when a building is badly needed for the boys and girls to use during the dull days of winter in which to take exercise and recreation.

Small Tax List Indicates Faith in City.

Nothing indicates the renewed interest in Prince Rupert so well as the tax sale list which was published in this paper yesterday. The number of parcels to be advertised was gradually reduced until when it was printed it was less than 500. It was thought, when the work of preparing the lists was commenced, that the number might approximate 700. People paid up freely, knowing that eventually the property would be good value and worth saving.

For her many children she knew what to do:
She made them most happy with Wrigley's for all—
It kept them in trim at a cost very

"The food crisis is grave and urgent beyond the possibility of exaggeration."—Sir Robert Borden

Help To Feed Yourself

Are you only a "destroyer of rations" when you might be a food producer?

Every pound of food that can be grown in Canada and made available for export, will be desperately needed by those who are bearing the brunt of the fighting and the suffering.

The amount of food produced this year will be absolutely limited by the extent to which people in cities and towns become food producers—there is no other labor reserve.

WHERE DO YOU BELONG?

On the Farm?

Thousands of men are urgently needed on farms in this province to make possible increased production of food. Those who could go and yet hold back, should not forget that, unless production is greatly increased, hundreds of thousands of people will die of starvation.

In the War Garden?

By growing vegetables in home gardens or on vacant lots, and thus helping to feed themselves, city and town people can leave the farmers free to grow more food for export. All that is produced in this way is gain and a net addition to the national food supply.

War Garden service is not sufficient for the man whose rightful place is on the farm. But the War Garden does offer an opportunity for tens of thousands of people, whose circumstances oblige them to remain in the city, to have at least a small part as food producers. Interest the boys and girls in the War Garden, for they too can help to grow food. If there is a garden or vacant lot movement in your community associate yourself with it. If no organization exists, do what you can to interest your neighbours in the War Garden campaign.
