Monday Sermon in Place of Sunday's.

Yesterday the churches were all closed and the clergy of the city lost their usual opportunity to exhort their congregations. In order that this might not be wholly lost some of the clergy have accepted an offer to say a few words to the people of the city through the columns of this paper. These will be found on another page.

An article in the American Magazine for November on "The Four Sins the Soldiers Say They Hate" is most suggestive and possibly is one of the best sermons that have been published for many a day. At any rate it gives the viewpoint of the American soldiers which is probably the viewpoint of all soldiers, and as soldiers are today such a large part of the community and will soon be much larger, the article is most appropriate.

Courage Comes First in Soldier's Religion.

Fred B. Smith, a businessman and Y. M. C. A. worker who has been doing Y. M. C. A. work at the front, was curious to find out the viewpoint of the men in the trenches. He missed no occasion of getting replies to questions, both oral and written, and the result of his investigations is that the great majority of the soldiers look upon courage as the one essential to the making of a man, the highest human attribute. The next most important quality is unselfishness, then comes generosity, and fourth, modesty or humility. The opposites of these are the things the soldiers hate. They are cowardice, selfishness, stinginess, and boastfulness.

Down to Bedrock of All Right Living.

To quote Mr. Smith in his comment on this attitude of the soldiers: "The more I thought about it the more it seemed that these soldiers had gone down to bedrock. They had passed the superficial layer of what is merely legal or illegal and had reached the things which are fundamental. And these qualities, these traces, which they have made the basis of their code, are fundamental, not merely in their life as soldiers; they are just as truly the basis for all right living anywhere and everywhere.

"For as I see it immorality, drunkenness and gambling cannot live side by side with courage, unselfishness, generosity and humility. The more you study this set of standards your boys have placed before them, the more you will be amazed by the unerring way in which they have picked out the great essentials of character.

"War strips the veneer from life. And just because they are soldiers these young men have instinctively let the surface things go and have found the influences underneath which mold that surface."

Sharing a Blanket Good Enough for Him.

Here is an example which one of the soldiers gives of unselfishness: "When we were going in the other night on our way to the trenches I forgot my blanket. It was darned cold, too. You fellows know that. And it looked to me like I was going to freeze out there. But when my pal found the fix I was in, instead of guying me for being such a fool as to forget my stuff he took out his knife and cut his own blanket in two and gave me half of it. I don't know whether that's what the preachers would call being good—but it's good enough for me."

Drunkenness and Immorality.

Once more to quote Mr. Smith: "And now about the other things, like drunkenness and immorality. Usually these were put fifth, sixth or seventh in the list. And it is a significant thing that drunkenness was placed before immorality in their condemnation. I think this can be explained by the fact that they are soldiers and that drunkenness is an open menace to the security of an army.

"The splendid truth is that our army in France is a sober army. It is the only one in which there is no such thing as a ration of alcoholic liquor. We have the cleanest, healthiest fighting force there is."

Discussing the question of immorality Mr. Smith quotes one of the officers who in talking to his men uses these words: "Don't you know, you damned fool, that we can't guarantee you immunity? Don't you know that you run the risk of being a diseased man the rest of your life? Cut it out. There's no sense in it. And there's no excuse for it." This is the official attitude of the army.

Fundamentally A Sound Code.

Continuing Mr. Smith says: "I have come to believe that it is a fundamentally sound code. I for one am perfectly willing to go out and preach it. And I believe that our churches will have to take it into consideration in the future. We have laid too much stress on the old surface things, the old 'taboo acts'—dancing, card playing, swearing and so on. We have got to follow those boys down to the deeper things which are fundamental: Courage and selfishness and generosity and humility."

Keep up the Food Supply and Help Make Victory Sure

OUR soldiers must be fed; the people at home must be fed. And—in spite of Germany's murderous campaign to cut off the Allies' Food supply, by sinking every ship on the High Seas—an ample and unfailing flow of food to England and France must be maintained.

This is National Service—
Not to the Farmer only—
But to YOU—to everybody—
This appeal is directed

WE must unite as a Nation to SERVE—to SAVE and to PRODUCE. Men, women and children; the young, the middle aged and the old—all can help in the Nation's Army of Production.

EVERY pound of FOOD raised, helps reduce the cost of living and adds to the Food Supply for Overseas.

PLANT a garden—small or large. Utilize your own back yard. Cultivate the vacant lots. Make them all yield food

WOMEN of towns can find no better or more important outlet for their energies than in cultivating a vegetable garden.

Be patriotic in act as well as in thought.

Use every means available—
Overlook nothing.
