WEST IN SCOTLAND

An English journalist's idea of language received rather a jolt some time ago when he happened on a secluded village in the Highlands of Scotland. He came across what was to him a strange transformation of the hamlet, due to the proximity of an American lumber camp. The village tavern had been rechristened "The Arizona Arms," and an opposite cottage announced "Good Eats for All." "More amazing still," continues the journalist, "chewing gum and grape juice were on sale at the village store."

SYNOPSIS OF

LAND ACT AMENDMENT

Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only.
Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.
Partnership pre-emptions abolished, but parties of not more than four may arrange for adjacent pre-emptions, with joint residence, but each making necessary improvements on respective claims.
Pre-emptors must occupy claims for five years and make improvements to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivation of at least 5 acres, before receiving Crown Grant.
Where pre-emptor in occupation not less than 3 years, and has made proportionate improvements, he may, because of ill-health or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.
Records without permanent residence may be issued provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $300 per annum and records same each year. Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained on these claims in less than 5 years, with improvements of $10 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years.
Pre-emptor holding Crown Grant may record another pre-emption if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.
Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesteads; but must be obtained after full residential and improvement conditions.
For grazing and industrial purposes, areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company.
PRE-EMPTORS' FREE GRANTS ACT.
The scope of this Act is enlarged to include all persons joining and serving with His Majesty's Forces. The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for title under this Act is extended from one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the present war. This privilege is also made retroactive.
TOWNSITE PROPERTY ALLOTMENT ACT.
Provision is made for the grant to persons holding uncompleted Agreements to Purchase from the Crown of such proportion of the land, if divisible, as the payments already made will cover in proportion to the sale price of the whole parcel. Two or more persons holding such Agreements may group their lands and apply for a proportionate allotment jointly. If it is not considered advisable to divide the land covered by an application for a proportionate allotment, an allotment of land of equal value selected from available Crown lands in the locality may be made. These allotments are conditional upon payment of all taxes due the Crown or to any municipality. The rights of persons to whom the allotment is made are also protected. The decision of the Minister of Lands in respect to the adjustment of a proportionate allotment is final. The time for making application for these allotments is limited to the 1st day of May, 1919. Any application made after this date will not be considered. These allotments apply to town lots and lands of the Crown sold at public auction.
For information apply to any Provincial Government Agent or to
C. R. NADEN,
Deputy Minister of Lands,
Victoria, B. C.

MANY EATING LESS
AND SAVING MORE

People Take Lighter Lunches—
Feel Better—and Save Money.

Many people are eating less these days. Partly it is from necessity. One no longer has the same free hand as formerly with the bread, the butter and the sugar. These are doled out to him now in more or less minute quantities. But partly it is from deliberate choice. Many feel that in these days when the need for thrift and self-denial of all kinds is so urgent anything like feasting must be rigorously cut out. There are not a third of the dinner parties that there used to be in pre-war days. An astonishingly large number of club men too, who formerly used to tackle a full course luncheon, will now have what is known as a "light lunch" consisting of a bit of fish and a cup of coffee or something of that kind. Many men who used invariably to lunch at a club will now be seen eating a much lighter and more modest repast at a "chair lunch."

In the Restaurants.

Apart from the frequenters of clubs, a whole lot of office men and others who frequent restaurants and other eating places are obviously endeavoring to make their luncheon and its concomitant bill both as light as possible. Enormous numbers of men of this type have forsaken the idea of a regular "sit down" luncheon altogether and content themselves with a piece of pie and a cup of tea or some slight refreshment of that sort. That is easy enough for the married man with a home who goes home to a proper dinner in the evening. But the case is rather different with the young fellow who rooms or boards. If he makes a light lunch it is more than likely that, with the prevalent ideas as to what ought to constitute a meal, he will not have the opportunity of making up much leeway at his evening meal.

A very large proportion of the men who still make a "sit down" luncheon are observed to eat fish. Indeed, the extent to which fish, as an article of diet, has come into its own, is amazing. It occupies a prominent place on all restaurant menus and is in great demand. This is all to the good, as the more we substitute fish for meat the more of the latter is available for export.

Those who are conscientiously and patriotically endeavoring to accumulate money savings find that conservation of food may easily be made a means to conservation of money as well. They have a sense of double duty performed. For both money and food are vital to Victory.

The Indian patients now being cared for at the Salvation Army Citadel are all doing very well now, and good progress is being made towards recovery. They are receiving every care and attention.

It is understood that the telephone girls are very much overworked these days. It is suggested that subscribers may cut their conversations as short as possible and eliminate unnecessary calls for the present.

The open season for geese and brant in this district has been changed. It was originally set from November 16 to February 21 but it is now open and will extend until February 5. There has been considerable criticism of the first mentioned date, as by November 16 the great flight of the big birds from the north is alleged to be well over.

Herman McKinnon, who belongs to Nova Scotia, died at the General Hospital yesterday from pneumonia, following an attack of influenza. He was a fisherman and one of the well known figures around town between trips. He was admitted to the hospital on Sunday, and died on Wednesday. His only known relative is Miss Jessie McKinnon, 114 Sandwich Street, Plymouth, Mass.

Many of the merchants seem anxious to have the stores closed earlier for a short time until the health conditions improve, in order that those who are still at work may have an opportunity to clean up and get away in good time. In some of the cities there has been compulsory early closing. The matter was discussed at the last council meeting but nothing definite was done.
