

LUMBER MILLS ARE CURTAILING OUTPUT

At a conference in Vancouver recently the mill owners of this section of British Columbia decided to curtail their output by 20 per cent. The lumbermen have adopted this course owing to a general falling off in the business. At the present time there is practically no market on the prairies for coast lumber and the embargo to the United States has also had its effect with the result that local mills are finding themselves with large stocks on hand. This decision has already gone into effect at some of the mills, while it is expected that fifty per cent. or more of the mills on the lower mainland and Vancouver Island will be affected by it. The length of time during which this curtailment will be effective is not definitely known, depending upon the general conditions of the lumber market. A revival in this market is, however, looked for in the early part of next year or the spring.

"TRUTH WILL OUT —"

Fearful lest the people should guess the full extent of the "strategic retreats" on the western front, Berlin has now stopped the sale of all Allied newspapers throughout Germany. To avoid awkward enquiries, they are again booming the "Continental Times" which is busy exposing the British Empire.

Oh say! The News Print Shop does its work about as cheap as most shops and quite as well, gives you the work on time whenever possible and hands it out with a pleasant "Thank you." What do you say to giving them a trial on your next job?

True war-time economy—use Sunlight Soap

It is impossible to buy a purer soap than Sunlight. Therefore it is really the cheapest soap you can buy. The purer and better the soap—the less you need for the wash and the better the work done.

Truly—it is real war-time economy to use Sunlight Soap for the wash and about the house.

ROBERT STEAD'S NEW NOVEL

Robert J. C. Stead, in his new novel "The Cow Puncher," (Toronto, the Musson Book Co., Ltd., cloth, $1.50), has written a notable book with a Western Canada setting. David Elden, the cow puncher of the story, grows to young manhood on a ranch in the foothills, outside the influence of church or school. At eighteen he is accidentally thrown into the company of a young Eastern girl, who enkindles in him the ambition to be somebody in the world.

With this purpose in view, young Elden leaves the ranch and goes to make his fortune in a young Western city. The first night he is swindled out of all his ready cash by a gang of card-sharps, and he takes a job next morning as a coal heaver. For a time it looks as though Dave's course would be downward instead of up, but he fortunately comes under influences which revive his ambition for self-betterment.

About this time the big western real estate boom breaks out, and Dave's course is meteoric. His wealth comes quickly and goes as quickly. Following the collapse of the boom a tragedy in his love affairs sends him as an enlisted man to France. In the closing chapters is found one of the highest patriotic notes struck by any author during the war.

"The Cow Puncher" is decidedly worth while. It is interesting and refreshing, and at times inspiring, written with all Mr. Stead's intimate knowledge of the West and skill of delineation. Through the book runs a happy vein of humor and philosophy which is not the least of its charms. It is illustrated by Arthur Heming, ex-lumber man and North West Mounted policeman, and is announced by the publishers as an all-Canadian book—written by a Canadian, illustrated by a Canadian, and printed and bound in Canada. It should receive a warm welcome from the Canadian reading public. The United States edition is issued by Harpers.

You Never Know What A Man Will Do

Mrs. Williams has been using Pacific Milk for cooking a long long time. Her husband got to using it in his morning coffee so they never buy fresh milk any more.

The other evening Mrs. W. bought some fresh cream to give him a treat (as she thought) with his porridge and to use with his coffee.

However, Mr. Williams didn't see it that way and when he discovered it was a different cream in the pitcher, he asked for the same as he'd been getting every morning — couldn't drink his coffee with the other "stuff."
