

MR. PATTULLO EXPLAINS HIS LAND POLICY

shall at once and immediately take over; all undeveloped lands, is to suggest an impossible proposition. At the present time all undeveloped lands are subject to wild land tax. If the Government were to immediately take over all undeveloped lands in the province it would at once be deprived of a large collectible revenue, while it would entail additional taxation upon the people because of the necessary interest and sinking fund that would have to be provided to liquidate the capital expenditure of money necessary in acquiring these lands.

For example, you state that all the undeveloped lands should be under the absolute control of the Government. And you further state that there are 5,000,000 acres of such lands. Just figure out what the holding cost of these 5,000,000 acres would be and the length of time it would take to bring them under development and it will be readily seen that action along this line is not of practical character. We must meet the situation in a business-like way and do what we can do under existing conditions. Along practical lines, therefore, we have already defined two areas. As fast as circumstances warrant, other areas will be delimited.

All in Hand.

As to the suggestion by question in your editorial that the holders of land within these areas are to be provided a fat profit by those responsible for appraising the lands, I am disappointed that such a suggestion should be made without one little of reason on the facts. As a matter of fact, holders of lands, both within and without these areas, are offering objection to the appraisals made on the ground that they are much too low to enable the present holders to get anything like their money back.

Of the lands which are now in right of the Crown, we are offering the best available to returned men.

The situation in a nutshell is, therefore, that areas of undeveloped lands close to transportation are now being made available for settlement both by civilians and by returned soldiers, with special privileges to returned soldiers, while of the lands which came back to the Crown by reason of not having been paid for, the best of these are being rendered available for settlement by returned soldiers, free of cost to the soldier.

PASSING OF THE BOILED SHIRT

The shining breastplate of the Englishman, his stiff white shirt, will soon be a thing of the past. The rigid rationing of coal will prevent the fine gloss on linen. This will be a blow to the conventional, well-dressed man, but he will survive it, as he has survived greater calamities. It is all to the good that the war has been taking the starch out of us. We are too stiff to adapt ourselves to circumstances. The soft shirt is a symbol of accommodation to environment. America and the colonies had not to learn the little lesson of the laundry. They have been soft shirties from the beginning of their histories. Lincoln was a soft shirt man, as our premiers across the seas have been soft-shirt men, but they presented a stiff front to adversity although they had no use for "starch." We will get back again some of these days to what old-fashioned writers call "immaculate evening dress," but the old rigidity will have disappeared from our social and international outlook.—London Daily Express.

AVOID PNEUMONIA

During Convalescing Period.
When convalescing from the flu a powerful blood-making tonic is an absolute necessity, and one that is accepted by the most delicate stomach should be available.

KENNEDY'S TONIC PORT is the most efficient general tonic and builder of body tissues you can possibly use.
It is a reliable restorative and is enjoyed when other medicines disagree.

Break Faith? Never.

The memory of their noble deeds is seared into our hearts, and will live in the hearts of our children, generations hence.

Let our lives, for which their lives were given, be pledged devotedly to the Cause—their Cause—of Freedom and Civilization.

We Canadians must carry on.

Before us, as a nation, as individuals, our way lies clear.

Afar off along the path that leads to Right we hear the cry of those who fell.

We will follow on.

We will finish the work they so nobly began.
