DAILY EDITION. Friday, November 15, 1918.

The Time Limit Expires Tomorrow.

Just today and tomorrow! Then the subscription lists for the Victory Loan 1918 will close. The Victory part of it has been assured by the boys at the front, but it is up to each individual at home to make the Loan. And only tomorrow remains.

Tomorrow—"manana"—is and has been the curse of some nations. For tomorrow never comes. Today while it is called today is the time to get busy and buy Victory Bonds.

The wise man who already has bought what he has considered all he could afford, will revise his estimates for the coming few months. There are some things costing money which could be done without, and their proposed cost might well be put into another bond. It will pay in the long run.

Don't put off until tomorrow. Now is the acceptable time.

To those other wise people who have not yet done their part, the same advice applies. Do it now! You are not giving your money away, but lending it at a high rate of interest with the best security in the world. It is a straight business proposition, showing an untaxable profit to the individual.

But what's the use of extending such an argument. Everybody knows it. There is but one thing to do and that is to buy bonds till you're broke.

No Retiring in Luxury For Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm.

It is rumored that the ex-Kaiser is to retire to one of his castles. That may be a temporary arrangement until the final peace terms are considered but it will never satisfy the men whose friends have been the victims of the Kaiser's brutality. For the biggest criminal of them all to escape and to live the rest of his days in luxury would not be justice. Wilhelm will have to expiate his sins or there will be some millions of soldiers who want to know the reason why.

Stewart to Be Served By Larger Boat.

Prince Rupert's highway is the sea. That is the way in which she keeps in touch with the outside world. While most places depend upon their good roads to develop intercourse with the neighbors, this city depends upon its steamship travel.

Just now Prince Rupert has a first class service. With seven and eight steamers running regularly to ports of call out of here the highway of the seas is being pretty well utilized. There is only one point that is not getting good service from here and that is Stewart. It is expected, however, that that place will be served in the near future.

The mines of Stewart are rich and one big one will be shipping this winter. The result will be that a good steamer will find ore cargo as well as passengers and ordinary freight to carry away from the camp.

The Beaver works for his town. What about our country? Have we bought all the bonds we can afford?

TREASURE SEEKERS ARE DISAPPOINTED IN THEIR SEARCH

Papeete, Tahiti, Oct. 13.—(By Mail)—Seekers of treasures, after spending more than $100,000 in chartering a steamer and equipping an expedition, have discovered that the object of their quest is worthless and the money expended lost.

An iron vessel was wrecked on the shore of the island of Takaroa. The same company which, some years ago raised the steamer Walkure in Papeete harbor dispatched a representative to report on the conditions of the wreck. On the strength of this report the steamer Raymond was chartered out and fitted.

When ready for the work of salvage to commence it was discovered that the plates on the vessel were rusted through and that they could not stand the strain of an ordinary squall. All attempt to salvage the ship had to be abandoned.
