Two Questions

With so many low-priced so-called anti-skids obtainable, would that great host of motorists pay more for Dunlop "Traction" Tread if they could get its merits elsewhere?

Also, would that other large list of car owners buy "SPECIAL" if tires which somewhat resemble it in appearance resembled it in efficiency?

CONTRACTS WITH HAND LOGGERS ARE NOW TERMINATED

H. R. McMillan Says That Spruce Production is Continuing As Usual.

That the hand loggers' contracts have been terminated by the Imperial Munitions Board is the first intimation received in regard to shutting down on the spruce production in Northern British Columbia. In regard to the others, the work is going on as usual and there is no lessening in the output so far, following the signing of the armistice. That is the message brought by H. R. McMillan who has charge of the spruce production work for Northern British Columbia.

Mr. McMillan says that had the war continued much longer there would have been a decided shortage of spruce. They found it difficult to keep up the supply of logs as it was, as most of the places where they are operating is practically logged out. There is plenty of other timber, but not aeroplane spruce.

The influenza is now practically a thing of the past in the camps. Mr. McMillan was taken with it himself and has but just recovered. He came over with Dr. M. T. Culbertson of Dawson, who has been there helping to fight the dread disease and has had an attack himself.

Dr. Culbertson came down on the Princess Sophia on her last trip south. On the call for doctors being sent out he thought it his duty to respond, so he left his wife at Calgary and as soon as possible he intends to rejoin her and continue the journey east.

Dr. Ward of Vancouver, who also went to the camps to help, is expected out in a few days.

DIRECT TAXATION TO BE DISCUSSED

Conference of Premiers May Challenge Right of Dominion To Levy Income Tax

Several matters of importance at issue between the Dominion and the various provinces, which have been allowed to lie dormant while more pressing business occupied the Federal ministers, will be due for settlement in the near future. One which affects British Columbia is that of the right of the Dominion to levy direct taxation within the province after the war.

This matter will probably be brought up at the convention of Provincial Premiers to be held in Ottawa this week. The Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, who is in charge of taxation matters, has wired Premier Oliver asking him to introduce the subject for discussion.

The item of direct taxation to which reference is specifically made is the income tax now being levied by the Dominion, in addition to the income tax which has been one of the large sources of British Columbia's revenue for over thirty years.

While this heavy burden of double taxation has been cheerfully borne so long as the war continued, protests may be expected from taxpayers after the Peace Treaty has been signed and difficulties in paying two income taxes begin to make themselves felt on the return of normal conditions.

With the heavy charges which have to be met by British Columbia for public debt and necessary development work, to which must be added some share of the cost of post-war responsibilities, the Minister of Finance regards it as of the utmost importance that all sources of provincial revenue be conserved and protected.

Doubtless with this in view Mr. Hart has reminded the Premier by wire so that the matter may be discussed at the inter-provincial conference table, and in consideration of the fact that the Federal Cabinet will now have some time to devote to matters other than purely war business.

PAPERS NOW TALK OF PRINCE RUPERT

In these days when the demand is so large for fish and more fish, some details of the halibut catch for one month in the waters about Prince Rupert, B. C., will be interesting, says a southern contemporary. The halibut fishing industry of the North Pacific dates back for a score or more of years, but its immense development dates back to the birth of Prince Rupert and the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, which afforded a port close to the fishing grounds and a direct railway line for the fast transport of this immensely valuable product, to the large markets in the East, both in Canada and the United States. The report for the month of September shows that in all a fleet of between eighty and a hundred vessels are occupied in halibut fishing in these waters, and during the month 128 fishing vessels arrived at Prince Rupert, bringing in a total catch of 1,094,000 pounds of halibut. The vessels in the fishing business, operating out of this port, make from one to three trips a month, and when it is considered they get from 8c to 15c per pound for their catch, according to quality, the importance of this industry to the country may be readily estimated.
