CONCERT WAS GREAT SUCCESS

Seventy Voices Blend to Make Delightful Harmony at the Westholme Theatre Last Night.

LARGE AUDIENCE AT INITIAL PERFORMANCE

To bring together a heterogeneous group of seventy people with seventy different kinds of voices and knit them into a homogeneous whole so as to produce exquisite harmony is a work for the gods. A brave attempt to do this thing has been made during the winter months by the Prince Rupert Musical Society and the choir which appeared in public for the first time last night at the Westholme Theatre was the first fruits of the effort.

J. E. Davey, the veteran conductor, who has been responsible for the training of the choir, had them well in hand last night, and the result was the subject of many encomiums from the audience. The selections chosen were old favorites and comparatively simple and they were sung with verve and the time was excellent. The attack was good and the general result was a surprise to everyone.

Criticisms.

If criticism is allowed of work so excellently done, it might be suggested that the shading might be more marked. The pianissimo parts especially would stand a good deal of fining down and there might be more volume in the forte. Those are the difficult things in training a choir and will come with practice, if the choir sticks to gether and practises faithfully. Possibly more ambitious works may be undertaken for the next entertainment as these would give the choir training along these particular lines.

Rectify Defects.

Conductor Davey on being asked if he was satisfied with the work done, expressed the opinion that the choir had done excellently, but there was plenty of room for improvement and that they would now get down to work to rectify their defects.

The tenors and alto parts were rather weak and should be strengthened.

The Soloists.

Of the other parts of the program it is difficult to say enough. The singing of Mrs. Aivazoff was most delightful, her trained voice sounding to good effect in the large building. Dr. Large has a wonderful voice and he uses it with telling effect. The old Scotch songs given by Mrs. W. Millar and A. Clapperton were among the favorites of the evening and the duet of Messrs. Waddell and Clapperton was well received. J. H. McMillan charmed with his violin and J. C. Brady's recitation was very humorous and excellently rendered. The orchestra did its work well.

President Speaks.

At the conclusion the president of the society, W. E. Williams, said that a small group, of whom the most prominent was E. V. Ling, got together a few kindred spirits and had organized the society. They had made good progress but their motto was "Excelsior." They would start again next Monday to practise for the next concert which would be given in April. On Wednesday they would have an "at home" in the K. of P. Hall at which each member of the society would have the privilege of bringing a friend. There was no politics and no sectionalism in the choir and if there was any religion nobody would know it.

The audience was large and appreciative and all seemed to enjoy themselves.

CALGARY LABOR MEN DENIED USE OF HALL

Calgary, Feb. 3.—The decision of labor men to hold a meeting on Sunday afternoon was called off owing to the hall being denied them. It was intended to have passed similar resolutions to those passed last Sunday, demanding the release of political prisoners and asking for the removal of the ban from prohibited literature.

The veterans had intimated their intention of attending the gathering.

Training the Invalided Soldier

WHEN the first Canadian casualties were announced every heart in Canada thrilled with the thought—"What will the country do to help these men overcome the handicaps they have suffered?"

Since that day Canada has been quietly developing a wonderful organization to help restore the strength and earning capacity of her invalided soldiers.

This work is in the charge of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment. It is divided into three classes.

Ward Occupations.

Soldiers who, on account of their injuries, are confined to wards or to their beds in hospitals are taught handicraft work of various kinds. This work is not meant to train a man in work by which he could earn a living. It is encouraged rather because it diverts the soldier's mind from his disability, and gives him light exercise. In this way it assists wonderfully in the soldier's recovery.

Occupational Therapy.

This work is conducted in hospitals. It is intended mainly to help in the cure of the patient. But it often serves as the ground-work for a course in Industrial Re-training. The following gives some idea of the breadth and scope of the subjects taught in these classes:—Mechanical drawing, woodworking, boot and shoe repairing, machine shop practice, gardening, poultry raising, civil service instruction, book-keeping, stenography, telegraphy.

Industrial Re-Training.

When a man is so injured by war service that he cannot follow the occupation or trade that he worked at before enlisting, the Department trains him for a new occupation.

For this work, use is made of Technical Schools and Universities at fourteen centres throughout the Dominion. Here primary training is given by specially planned courses. This helps a man begin his actual re-training work intelligently.

Most of the re-training is given in actual factories and shops. Hundreds of large and small concerns have co-operated whole-heartedly in this work—placing at the disposal of the Department, without charge, their equipment and the services of many of their staffs.

Ninety-five per cent of those who have been granted "Industrial Re-training" courses by the Department have been successful in becoming self-supporting in a new trade or occupation.

These benefits are given by the Department to ex-members of the Canadian, British and Allied forces living in Canada, who come within the classes for which these benefits are provided.

During the period a man is being "Re-trained" he and his dependents are granted adequate pay and allowances.

To any one interested in the work of this Department information will be gladly given on application to—
