Monday Preachment On the City's Needs.

The News has on several occasions drawn attention to two important needs in this town. One is some means of securing proper exercise, and the other is the lack of mental stimuli in the form of books. To overcome the first there should be some form of physical classes, especially designed for men in business or working in offices. For the second a public library is necessary.

Physical Exercise Comes First.

The first need of every man is to see that he has a sound body and to keep it sound. Young people do that naturally through their games and sports. It is difficult to stop children from playing and it is wicked to do it. Play is as necessary as feed, but like food, of course, it must be taken at proper seasons.

With older people who become engrossed in their work often the recreation feature is missed. Dancing to some extent fills the need, but there is not sufficient regularity about that pastime. As a rule the dances are held at irregular intervals and many of them are continued too long. Two hours of dancing does a man or woman good; four or five hours of the same thing must be harmful. More Cinderella dances would be an advantage.

Good Opportunity To Fill the Need.

For those who do not dance or who look on dancing with more or less suspicion there is skating. Prince Rupert has a fine rink and all the conveniences for the best possible form of exercise. To some extent the sport has fallen into disuse, but it seems likely to revive, in fact, according to report, is already reviving. Nothing could be better for physical development than an hour in the evening on rollers.

As there is no Y. M. C. A. or other institution here designed especially for the purpose of providing men and women with physical training it has been suggested that an organization should be formed to put on physical classes in some convenient hall such as the roller rink. Doubtless that place could be secured for the purpose at hours when it is not in use for skating, and there could be nothing more suitable. The hall is big enough for basket ball, hockey or indoor baseball, and those who wish could then take a turn on the rollers when the eight o'clock gong sounds. It is worth considering by those who have at heart the welfare of the people generally.

Too Much Loafing And Nothing to Do.

There is too much loafing in town. People hang around street corners and in stores and other places in a way that would not be tolerated elsewhere. There is no need for that if there was something else to do. One or two men who were really interested in the welfare of the city and who had a few hours to spare could rectify it to a large extent. There is plenty of scope for religious exercises. There are half a dozen almost empty churches, but the physical well being, which should be the first care of the community, seems to be almost wholly neglected.

Initiative and Leadership.

The News has been asked why, as it is so keen on suggesting all these things, it does not start an organization. It is a foolish suggestion. The province of a newspaper is to suggest things. Many of the suggestions may never be carried out, but to bring them to the attention of the people is a duty.

We believe in constructive criticism. We are of opinion that if places like cabarets are to be stopped something must take their places. Moses tried to say "Thou shalt not" and failed. Then came along a much greater than Moses who seldom said "Thou shalt not," but who often said "Do this," "Do that," and he was a success. There are natural activities and energies in man which must find scope and if they are not directed they will break away on all kind of tangents. Those activities properly directed and given scope for expression are what stand for progress and development. When allowed to be perverted they make for retrogression and annihilation.
