BRITAIN PAID A BIG PRICE IN SHIPPING

Lost Ten Times As Much Tonnage as Either France or Italy.

In urging that immediate steps be taken to rebuild the British merchant marine, Archibald S. Hurd, the naval writer, in an article in the Daily Telegraph, said that although the United Kingdom was not invaded, Great Britain had paid for victory in the loss of more than 9,000,000 tons of shipping, ten times as much as that lost by either France or Italy. The British losses were 17 times as much as the United States.

No Small Price.

"Little has been said of the injuries inflicted on this country in the war," Mr. Hurd says. "There is an impression in allied and neutral countries, that we paid a relatively small price for victory. It is true that we were not invaded, but that was due, not to good fortune, for the sea is the easiest and quickest medium for an invader, but to good policy. It is also true that we were not starved, but that was the result of good judgment and organization. It is very necessary that some importance should be attached to the injury inflicted upon us as a people who follow the sea, because there is a temptation to exaggerate the damage sustained by the allies on the land and to ignore the results of enemy action by sea.

Half Destroyed.

"It is certain that if it had not been for the British merchant navy, France and Italy would have been driven out of the war and America would never have been able to intervene. When the war came, the vast volume of British merchant ships was placed in the service and became the principal target of the enemy's naval forces. The result was that approximately half the tonnage under the British flag was destroyed.

Down to Figures.

"The following figures show the total losses in gross tonnage of merchant losses sustained by this and other countries during the war:—

"The United Kingdom and Dominions, 9,055,668; the United

Milk Lives on Character

Pacific Milk came into the market with no special announcement other than its own character.

It was honest and pure and had to find its place on these merits. Mrs. Manifer told one of our young ladies that she has used it since the first time she saw it on a grocer's shelf. She does not believe it possible that other milk could be as good and at the same time cost as little.

There are many others who know Pacific Milk like this.

"The British tonnage sunk, therefore, was more than ten times as much as that lost by either France or Italy and 17 times as much as that lost by America.

Shipping Vital.

"We depend on shipping for almost all that we require. Very nearly all of our remaining ships need to be overhauled, which means that they are handicapped in trading and it is doubtful if some are worth the expense of restoration. In effect, we have to build the whole of our merchant marine as soon as we can.

"That is one item in the war bill due to us as a maritime nation, and our case is separated from that of other countries which are not islands and are not pivotal points of maritime empires. Moreover, the above figures do not exhibit the value of the cargoes sunk, the number of lives destroyed, or the inestimable injury caused by our withdrawal of ships from distant trade routes in order that we might help our allies and transport over the Atlantic a majority of the American troops which turned the scale on the western front."

"Fare for a King"

Awaits HER Man

All week wife had been busy getting ready for Tom's home-coming. First of all, she had tried ordinary, bread flour for pastry baking; and then, just to see if what the ads. said about "fluffiest and crispest" was true, she had bought a 10-lb. sack of WILD ROSE PASTRY FLOUR. The result "look her by storm," and Tom was due for a double surprise. Wild Rose Pastry Flour had captured the day. It "made good," even against wife's most alluringly, descriptive letters, plus Tom's fondest "trench pipe dreams." Milled from soft wheat, it requires at least 25 per cent. less shortening, producing results absolutely unobtainable from bread flour. A trial will convince—Your grocer has it.
