Principal Brady Sets Forth Interesting Truths re Education of Boys, and Scores Conditions.

(Special via G. T. P. Telegraphs.)

Victoria, March 6.—In a letter from General Currie written on February 7 he says most of the third division were then in England en route home. The first, second and fourth divisions will follow in the order named. The policy of returning men by units has been decided upon. All Canadian troops will be in England by May 1 and all back in Canada before June 2.

From the lips of criminals the sad tale of how the training of the streets had led to crime. Mr. Brady said he had never found on the school grounds a boy or girl fond of play and at the same time evil minded or evil spoken. It was the duty of the state when the mother had done her part to lend a helping hand by giving the child a chance to develop.

Now and then there was a belated report of some little thing being done. The life of a child was not to be counted in dollars.

Through the economic urge many children had to leave school at an early age. Against this condition there is already a rumbling of discontent, said the speaker. Men are wondering why they are not given the rights which they ought to have. Many of the evils of the day took place because men in high office had not the vision. Great nations of old lived for selfish ends and perished. Our empire lives for the future, the lives of the mighty dead say so.

Scholarships. Mr. Brady went on to advocate the giving of scholarships to all children who entered the high school in order to do away with the necessity of giving way to the economic urge. He asked why should it be that when parents had the courage to bring up children they should be unable to give them an education.

Mr. Brady went on to speak of the evils of poverty. He made the statement that he had never known a criminal who came from a comfortable home. The boys from the poor homes often struggled to be good but they went down under the pressure. Deeper interest should be taken in this subject. Men in high places were computing how they could lower the wages, whereas they should be considering how they could raise them. Let the boys be educated in the high school and there would be little heard of strikes and labor troubles.

Recreation. Mr. Brady went on to speak of the lack of recreational facilities here. There was no gymnasium or swimming bath and the result

MILLER MUST STAY IN JAIL

Judge Young Confirms Sentence of Nine Months' Imprisonment for Selling Whiskey.

SECOND TRIAL TOOK PLACE YESTERDAY

In confirming the judgment of nine months' imprisonment for selling liquor contrary to the provisions of the British Columbia Prohibition Act against Clarence Miller, Judge Young said that he had little to say. There was no doubt the accused negotiated the sale of the liquor. He saw Blanche Hart and then went to Madeline Myers who agreed to purchase the liquor. As a result of the negotiations the barrel was delivered to Miss Myers.

Johnson—the Crook. The prisoner told the women he was to get a commission on the sale. It was unreasonable to think he should have placed himself in jeopardy unless he was getting something out of it. The question of grabbing the money was immaterial. He had followed the instructions of Johnson, crook that he was, who was not man enough to carry out his part of the bargain.

The judge said he felt sorry for the man but this was not a court of sympathy but of law. He was not concerned with the suggestion that the Prohibition Act was persecuting the public. In regard to the application for a stated case he was willing to hear argument on it later.

The case was heard yesterday afternoon before Judge Young, with W. W. B. McInnes of Vancouver who has come up especially for the occasion, defending, and W. E. Williams for the crown.

Famous Case. This case is the famous one in which a barrel of water was sold to Blanch Hart and Madeline Myers of Comox Avenue, on the supposition that it was whiskey, the sum of $1,450 being paid for it.

The women concerned told their tale again of how Miller had agreed to sell the liquor, how it was delivered and the money paid. How Johnson, the other party to the fraud, had grabbed the money and made off and had not since been heard from. The witnesses

GERMAN WAR PLOT BROUGHT TO LIGHT

Two Seamen Committed Suicide on Barkentine Puako en Route Victoria to Cape Town.

New York, March 6.—Disclosures in regard to a war time plot to destroy American shipping on the Pacific coast have been brought to light in an investigation into charges brought by the crew of the Barkentine Puako from Victoria, B. C., for Cape Town that their master, Captain Adolphe Pedersen had been so strict that two of the seamen had committed suicide.

Pedersen said that the crew attempted to sink the ship. were confident that what they bought was water.

For Dismissal. The evidence being all in for the prosecution Mr. McInnes made an application for dismissal of case on the plea that the sale made was by the evidence shown to be water and not whiskey. All the whiskey that was in the barrel had been given away as a sample and what was sold was not whiskey. It was whiskey they pretended to sell and it was a miserable, contemptible trick, there was no doubt about that. The proper charge to have made would have been one for getting money under false pretences.

Mr. Williams submitted that a (Continued on Page Six.)
