How Often Should Glasses Be Changed

HOW long will I have to wear my glasses before they require changing? This is a question often asked and difficult to answer, as it depends on the condition of the eyes. But you may take one thing for granted—if you have your glasses absolutely correct in the first place, and use only high-grade lenses, they will last you longer than if they are only the "near-right" kind.

IN this connection, we may say that we always aim at fitting glasses that keep the eyes in a permanently normal condition, and our patrons seldom require their correction changed.

IF the glasses you are wearing are not giving you perfect eye-comfort, come in and let us make a thorough scientific examination of your eyes and your glasses.

We make no charge for this service.

BY-ELECTIONS GOING AGAINST GOVERNMENT IN GREAT BRITAIN

London, March 22. — Politicians look upon the result in the parliamentary election in the West Leyton division as a sharp reminder to the coalition government of Premier Lloyd George of popular discontent. The division returned A. E. Newbould, an Independent Liberal, who was defeated in December, by a majority of 2,000 over K. F. Mason, Coalition Unionist. In the general election in December, the Coalition Unionist, Colonel Wrightson, whose death made today's election necessary, polled 11,000 votes to Newbould's 2,000.

This result, with the fact that Rear Admiral Sir W. R. Hall, Coalition Unionist, was returned for the West Derby division of Liverpool recently by a greatly decreased majority is taken to show that the political tide is turning.

Approved by Premier.

In the case of Admiral Hall, the Coalitionists were able to argue that the result meant merely that his predecessor, Sir W. E. Smith, since appointed Lord High Chancellor, enjoyed unusual prestige and personal popularity. The Newbould case is different. Premier Lloyd George wrote a letter approving the candidacy of Mr. Mason as a supporter of the coalition government. Mr. Newbould then sent a letter to the Premier pointing out that Mason consistently voted against the Liberal policy of Lloyd George and against his social measures, whereas Newbould had always supported the policy of Lloyd George. The Premier failed to reply to the letter, and the Liberals made great capital of the fact.

Financial Policy.

Politicians credit this change in sentiment to the government's financial policy, of which C. F. G. Masterman, financial secretary to the treasury in the Asquith cabinet, calls the "Road to Ruin." Approximation bills for the coming fiscal year which the government has introduced in the House of Commons in the last few days, included £440,000,000 for the army, which is more than ten times the scale before the war; £149,000,000 for the navy, which is roughly five times the rate before the war; £65,000,000 for the service budget and £495,000,000 for the civil service, the appropriation for the civil service being nearly two and a half times the government's annual expense before the war.

Army Appropriations.

The army appropriations asked for by Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary of state for war, were designed to cover all possible contingencies and are susceptible of a great saving, but the ordinary man fails to take that fact into account.

Another cause of dissatisfaction is the continuance of conscription in a limited measure and the general impatience to get the country to a peace footing.
