DAILEY EDITION.  Monday, March 24, 1919.

Better Accommodation For Visiting Indians.

Now that the Agricultural Association is coming to life and commencing to get ready for the work of the coming season, it might be time to begin to consider the question of providing some better accommodation for the thousand visiting natives that come from all parts of the north at the time of the fair.

Last year the conditions were a disgrace, and yet there were buildings in the city which were not being used. It has been suggested that each of the churches might make arrangements to look after its own people. Practically all the Indians are Christians and belong to the denominations which are represented here. If the use of some of the church buildings were given for that week the service would be a favorable one. If no one else provides for these visitors the city should certainly take some steps to look after them.

Some of the missionaries and others who felt themselves more or less responsible for the well being of the natives when here last year, stated that if nothing was done to prepare for these visitors before next fair they would use their influence to keep them away from this place.

Prince Rupert merchants profit very largely from the visit of the Indians at fair time and they cannot afford to allow anything to keep them away. For that reason alone, if for no other, they should insist that preparations be made to care for the visitors. It is a shame and a disgrace that young men and women should have to stay in the cabarets all night or walk the streets simply because there is no other place in town where they can be accommodated.

Building Might be Used Much More.

The Exhibition Building is a dead loss to the community. It has so far proved to be a poor investment. It is used for one week during the year for the exhibition and then on one or two other occasions. During the remainder of the year it is idle.

It is a much worse waste than to keep church buildings idle six days in the week and to use them only on Sundays, yet there are so many uses to which the building might be put. Perhaps when it is finished some arrangements might be made that this really valuable edifice may be used by the community on regular occasions, perhaps every day.

Valuable Library in Hut on Third Ave.

There are a good many people who are not aware that there is a really good collection of excellent books at the Red Cross Hut which can be borrowed for a small consideration. Practically all day Friday the hut is open and on Tuesday evenings Mrs. Backus is there in charge. Those who do not know what volumes to choose will get valuable help from the librarian who has read them all.

Some day we shall have a free public library. In the meantime there is the nucleus of a good collection at the Red Cross Hut. Those who have books which they do not want would do well to hand them over to the library, and those who wish to borrow books will find a good choice there.

Alaska for The Alaskans.

A report received from Southern Alaska says that the canners there have agreed to employ so far as possible Alaska people in their business this year. The matter was taken up by their publicity bureau with excellent results.

This suggests to Prince Rupert people that the northern British Columbia canners might take a hint from the Alaska canners. This should be the centre of supply both for labor and goods to the canneries of the Skeena and the Naas, as well as the Queen Charlottes and if sufficient pressure is brought to bear it will be found that we shall get the business. We must keep after it if we are to succeed.
