DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS NEWSPAPER REPORTER

Popular Athletic Star Comes to Westholme in New Role Tonight.

Douglas Fairbank's new photoplay, "Say, Young Fellow," which is at the Westholme tonight, is described as being, perhaps, the most novel in which he ever has appeared. The story was written by Joseph Henaberry, who also directed the picture. An admirable cast of players appears in support of the popular Artercraft star. In this photoplay Mr. Fairbanks portrays the role of a wide-awake, optimistic reporter employed in a small city, who wins distinction by interviewing a millionaire who not only has never been interviewed before, but who announced that he never would submit to reportorial inquisition. How Mr. Fairbanks, known as "the young fellow," gets to the millionaire and obtains the story he is after, is said to be a highly interesting development, new to modern motion pictures.

CATTLE STORY AT EMPRESS TONIGHT

Great Production Full of Action and Thrills Starring Monroe Salisbury.

There is a great story at the Empress Theatre tonight. An unscrupulous cattle king objects very strenuously to homesteading on his range and hires a "killer," a man without a soul, to get rid of the intruders.

This murderer and his gang of cattle rustlers proceed to business. But one homesteader, Alen McDonald, a Scotchman, played by Monroe Salisbury, swears vengeance on the gang.

Can you imagine Salisbury wearing kilts and playing the pipes in order to gain entrance to the enemy's camp. This is what he does. There is a strain of comedy running through the whole show. The scenes are powerful and exciting.

JABOUR BROTHERS' SALE IS EXTENDED

Many Will Take Advantage of Dollar Day Offerings on Monday Next.

Owing to an error Jabour Bros. sale advertisement was omitted yesterday and as a result the time has been extended one day. Large numbers of people have already taken advantage of this sale and all have found goods that are up to the minute at low sale prices.

On Monday there will be many special offerings, particulars of which may be seen in the advertisement in this number.

SPANISH DANCE AT WESTHOLME THEATRE

Appeal Made by W. E. Williams For Help in Building Campaign.

Last night was Amateur Night at the Westholme Theatre and it proved to be a decided success. During the intermission, W. E. Williams made his appearance on the stage and spoke of the new housing scheme, and asked them to give him all the support they could in making it a success.

Following this E. Craggs gave the audience a hearty laugh for several minutes when he sang one of his splendid comic songs, which was succeeded by Miss A. Shaw, dressed very becomingly in an "Air Cadet's uniform." She sang the well known song "Take me back to Blighty," receiving hearty applause.

The closing tableau was a Spanish dance excellently performed by the Misses Bailey, being one of the most interesting features of the entertainment.

SECURING EXHIBITS FOR AUTUMN FAIR

While C. C. Perry was up at Granby a few days ago, he interviewed the management with a view to securing an industrial exhibit for this year's fair. He will also endeavor to secure from the pulp and paper mills at Ocean Falls and Swanson Bay industrial exhibits showing the various stages in the manufacture of pulp and paper, right from the tree to the finished product.

Mr. Perry is greatly interested in the future development of the district, and will do his utmost to make this year's fair of greater educational value than ever before.

PRINCE RUPERT'S MEMBER DEALS WITH FISHERIES IN PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE

fishing and packing and all other fishing and packing should be thrown wide open.

"I understand that for the coming season the Federal authorities have abolished the iniquitous system of boat rating, and that all licences issued this year will be independent licences. I understand that 850 licences will be issued on the Skeena river, 700 at Rivers Inlet and 240 on the Naas. To my mind the Dominion Department of Fisheries ought to give first chance to take up these licences to returned soldiers, and the remainder to the Indian and British subjects resident within each district.

Could Make Money.

"That the returned soldier can not only make a living but make money in salmon fishing was demonstrated last year, when several returned men in the north were given a chance by reason of the fact that the canneries wanted everything with scales on. This year three of these men are spending $5,000 in building a new boat, and I believe that, given a chance, other returned men can do equally well. To give the returned man a chance in salmon fishing, the use of traps and drag seines should be stopped.

Cannery Licences.

"I note that Ottawa has passed an Order-in-Council stopping the issue of any new cannery licences for five years. I think a cannery licence should be issued to any man who will use it legitimately.

"To tighten up the salmon monopoly is no step towards conserving the fish. Throw the whole business wide open and regulate the hours of fishing. Shut down the fishing each week long enough to allow the necessary number of fish to reach the spawning grounds and leave the fishing and canning industries to straight business competition.

Gas Boats.

"I note also that, while gas boats are permitted in salmon fishing in the south, they are expressly prohibited in the northern waters. Another case of discrimination. If gas boats are permitted in the south, they should also be permitted in the north.

Drastic Revision.

"It seems to me that the regulations governing the salmon industry require drastic revision, and that they should be revised with a view to making the industry one of the best possible means of earning a living by returned soldiers. The opportunities are there, but the returned man is fenced off from them."
