ALDERMAN CASEY REPORTS TO FEDERATION OF LABOR ON CALGARY CONVENTION

EXPLAINS WHY GREETINGS WERE SENT TO BOLSHEVIKI OF RUSSIA AND SPARTACANS OF GERMANY;
IDEA OF ONE BIG UNION

There was a large gathering of workmen and returned soldiers last night to hear Alderman Casey tell of his visit to the Calgary Convention which was held recently under the auspices of the American Federation of Labor, and many were unable to get admission owing to lack of standing room. It was an orderly affair and at the close only a few questions were asked.

Mr. Casey gave a long account of the proceedings at Calgary, and account of most of which has already been published. He then on to discuss the sending of greetings to the Bolsheviks and the Spartacans of Germany. He said that the present situation of labor was not of their making. No one individual was responsible for the system. It was the natural product of an industrial system. By organization and education they hoped to change the capitalist class and inaugurate a co-operative commonwealth.

"That order is to come," said Mr. Casey. "You and I cannot stop it. The masses will be compelled for their own very existence to adopt it. In Russia they see things the same way that we do, and have adopted the same philosophy but the men of Russia beat us to it. They will not get our greetings because there is no way of sending them, but we have displayed our good feeling toward them."

Spartacans.
Dealing with the message to Spartacans Mr. Casey said the Spartacans were an auxiliary of the Bolsheviks. Germany had known as the home of Socialism, but it was a heresy on Socialism. When the test came Socialists went with the Kaiser. That Socialism did not represent all the workers, however, represented their action. These men at the institution on the inside as faithfully as the Allies fought it on the outside. He quoted from a manifesto issued during the war which called on the German soldiers in the trenches to quit and depose the Kaiser from the throne.

All had read of the activities of the secret and others of the leaders who were imprisoned for expressing their views. He was not inclined of sending fraternal greetings to men who acted along these lines.

FISH TREATY WITH U.S.A.

Regulations Governing Sockeye
Salmon Proposed to be Put Into Effect.

(Special via G. T. P. Telegraphs.)

Washington, March 31.—The State Department has made public the draft of a proposed treaty and regulations to govern the sockeye salmon fishing industry on the Fraser river system which includes the lower portion of the Gulf of Georgia and Juan de Fuca Strait in the State of Washington.

The proposed treaty provides for an international commission. Two men from each country shall conduct investigations recommended for consideration and modification that experience may indicate as desirable and the treaty shall remain in force for fifteen years.

The regulations contemplate the licensing of the fisheries by Canada and the state of Washington as heretofore; that no greater number of licenses for any class of fishing be issued at Washington than in 1918 and no more than 1,800 gill licenses to be granted on the Canadian side; that license restrictions in Canada are made to apply only to residents in B. C., or to companies licensed to do business in the province and in Washington state to resident American citizens or to companies authorized to do business in the state.

CLOCKS TO GO HOUR FORWARD

Order Passed Saturday and in Effect Yesterday; Confusion

At Ottawa.
Ottawa, March 31.—Great confusion and vexatious complication is the prospect as a result of the present uncertain situation regarding daylight saving. In spite of the fact that Parliament went on record last week against a resumption this year in Canada the railways adopted the new time and most of the cities and towns appear ready also to adopt it.

Still in Force.

Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the Railway Commission, has brought down judgment that the Daylight Saving Act of last year is still in force on the statute books, and that only a proclamation by order-in-council is necessary to make it effective in the Dominion. In spite of the opinion of the Justice Department it is not necessary to pass a new act. Drayton has set next Tuesday on which the railway companies can come before him and give reasons why they should adopt new time, regardless of the action of Parliament. The railways will have some heavy backing from city councils, boards of trade, retail merchants, etc. Farmers also will be represented and will press for an order compelling railway companies to at least run on standard time where local lines are concerned.
