DAILY EDITION. Thursday, April 10, 1919.

Sane Reform But Not Revolution.

The union men of Prince Rupert rather resent an idea that seems to have got abroad to the effect that they are in sympathy with the Bolsheviki methods and movements. Naturally they favor any movement which tends to get rid of autocracy and oppression, but that does not mean that they are revolutionists or that they look for any violent upheaval in the body politic.

There are and always have been men who would like to see a general upheaval, hoping in the scramble to secure something better for themselves. There are also a few who are jealous of those who are doing better than themselves. Taken as a whole, however, the union men are just as sane and anxious for stable government as are the businessmen. They resent any idea that they are easily carried away by the glamour of a new movement, and they can be depended upon to look at every new proposal from the point of view of the general welfare.

Few people ever thought seriously that there was any real disaffection in Prince Rupert, but commencing with a joke, the idea seems to have gained ground in some quarters that the Federation of Labor was a revolutionary organization and that the Trades and Labor Council was closely allied with it. There are always a few hotheads in every community, but the mass of the people are sane and do not like their efforts for mutual betterment to be misconstrued.

Interior News' First Birthday.

The Interior News of Smithers under the capable managing editorship of L. B. Warner has just completed one year of life, and it looks to be in a healthy condition. In order to make a good showing and put up a readable paper the editor says that he has had to work sixteen hours a day. That is true of almost every paper that is making a success. There is no money in the newspaper game for anyone, but there is a fascination about it which makes it almost impossible to break away. The newspaperman is always looking to the future, a future that is as evasive as the foot of the rainbow.

Mr. Warner has been doing good work for Smithers and the Bulkley Valley. The Interior News is one of the most welcome exchanges the News gets and it is a compliment to that paper that we find something each week that we can pass on to the people of Prince Rupert. The growth and prosperity of the Bulkley is watched with keen interest from the coast and there is no better reflex of that prosperity than the columns of the weekly paper published at Smithers.

Liberal Leader Still Discussed.

The Vancouver Sun is very much concerned over the question of leadership of the Liberal party, the chief concern being that it shall not go to McKenzie King. Apparently that paper is willing to support anyone else. Day after day the matter is mentioned but with no very definite result.

Just why the Sun objects to Mr. King is not very clear. The paper admits his all round sterling qualities but refuses to allow that he has any qualification for leadership.

It must be admitted, and the attitude of the Sun is one of the proofs, that Mr. King has as good a chance of being chosen leader as anybody at present in sight. His name is constantly before the public, especially in the east, and he seems to have no rival except the present House leader.
