Air Service

By the Railways.

The C. P. R. is applying for permission from Parliament to establish air services in Canada and adjoining territory. This big transportation corporation is recognizing that air transportation is some to stay and is likely to become a popular means of travel. It will not be in competition with the railways so much as auxiliary to them, for many years to come at any rate. Possibly the time will come when air travel will be a serious competitor with rail travel and if it is the C. P. R. wants to be ready to undertake the work of establishing lines and keeping abreast of the times. |*

Doubtless other lines will follow the C. P. R. and any new railway charters that may be granted will have included in them the right to establish air lines. The Dominion Government, as the owner of one of the big lines of railway will have to step in |* line and establish air services where necessary. It will have to |* show that government ownership is not a drag on the wheels but that under state ownership there can be a reaching out and a moving forward. The C. P. R. is giving them a lead this time, showing that initiative lies with the private companies rather than with the Government.

Native Paper Very Interesting.

The pupils of the native school at Hydaburg, Alaska, are the 10th day of Lecember, 1918, of ALL AND SINGULAR that certain parcel or tract publishing a paper known as "The New Native," dealing almost of land and premises situate, lying and being in the City of Prince Rupert, more exclusively with Indian affairs. It is a bright sheet of four pages, Nineteen (19), Block Forty-two (42), four columns to a page, is all set by hand and contains a good deal of advertising. The motto under the title is "Live for Some- of the tax purchased within 35 days from thing," one that might well be adopted by everyone. The work (which may be effected by publication in is well done and doubtless will improve.

Suggestions for native industries contained in the editorial ing extract therefrom:columns are that oars and yellow cedar chests should be manufactured. That also applies to Prince Rupert. We look to learn a great deal from "The New Native" and must congratulate the Indians of Hydaburg on their production.

Question of Titles Still a Live One.

The question of the granting of titles to Canadians by the British Government was discussed recently at Ottawa and referred to a special committee of the House of Commons to consider. There was a great deal of interest taken in the question and the vote on it was close, the motion to refer to a committee being carried by 71 to 64. Nine Unionists voted for immediate settlement of the question by the House, seven of them being of october, 1917 (the date on which the Liberal Unionists.

The Government leaders seem anxious to postpone action until such time as their friends have been properly provided with handles to their names. They have shown this by making recommendations for titles. This may make it necessary for Parliament later to forbid the use of all titles in this country. There cannot be a true democracy where a few people are set on a pedestal by proposed action on my part. their political friends, the merit usually being purely a monetary Rupert, B. C., this 11th day of April, 1919. one. If titles are to be sold, the best method is to put them up to auction and knock them down to the highest bidder and let the proceeds go into the coffers of the state rather than to replenish party funds.

Psycopathic Inferiority.

A copy of the Immigration Amendment Act shows that persons of "constitutional psycopathic inferiority" are debarred from entering the country.

Reference to Webster's dictionary shows that psycopathic indicates abnormal sensitiveness to spiritual phenomena or being characterized by extreme susceptibility to religious emotion, conscientious doubts and fears. A person who is subject to hallucinatery ideas in regard to religious mattters may be classed as psychopathic. From all this it would seem that any person who has a wrong thinkery of any kind might be kept out of the country, which means of course that he must think as we do, or as the majority do, else he is not made welcome.

A person must not be too religious or in other words he 1919. must not take his religion too seriously else he would be odd and not acceptable to the powers that be. If Jesus of Nazareth were to apply he would, in all probability, be promptly turned down as one of psycopathic inferiority and would be sent home to his own country at the expense of the transportation company. Those who wish to come to Canada must hand their consciences over to the state and also their religious emotions to be pruned and formed in accordance with official formulae.
