CAPT. MCGREGOR TELLS OF WORK OF CANADIAN 'Y'

Always Right to the Front, He Told Vancouver Interviewer, Supplying Smokes and Drinks.

WINNING CROSS ONE OF FINEST FEATS OF WAR

(By mail.)

Vancouver, April 24.—Captain J. McGregor, V. C., D. C. M., M. C., one of Canada's greatest and most modest heroes, was sitting in the Red Cross Triangle Club swapping yarns with Tom Armit, D. C. M., of their days together in the 2nd C. M. R. "Mac," as the boys call him, is ranked a hero even among the men of the 2nd C. M. R. which boasts of over two hundred decorations and innumerable valorous deeds which went unrecognized. With a clean, frank and open countenance which, however, shows a world of strength and determination, it is not hard to understand that this quiet, unassuming young Scotchman could develop a righteous fury that would carry him through as many Huns as could get in front of him.

Always Up to Front.

Although he will not talk of his own deeds, there is one thing of which he will talk quite freely, and that is the Canadian 'Y'. M. C. A. "After all that the 'Y' has done for us fellows over there, it is the best we can do to help it all we can over here," is the way he put it. "The work done by the Canadian Y. M. C. A. as I saw it at the front was the best of any organization there," he went on. "Speaking as a fighting man, and I was at the front for all but five weeks out of three years and four months, what we appreciated most was what was done for the fighting man while he was fighting. I never was in a fight where the 'Y' was not right up in the forward or battle area."

Smokes and Drinks.

The captain recalled incident after incident where the "Y" man was in his dugout or his tent, or by the side of the road with no shelter, handing out hot coffee or tea, biscuits and cigarettes to the boys either going into the fight or coming out tired and often wounded. He told of the man going right into the trenches where the men could not get out, supplying generously the hot drinks and the smokes that cheered the boys and made them better fighters. He recalled particularly the time when they were trailing through the mud of the Albert-Bapaume road, dragging their machine guns with them. It would have been impossible for them to have gone through if it had not been for the refreshments they got every once in a while from the "Y" men who were holding their positions along the dangerous road. "Anyone who has been in the fighting area must have a good word to say for the 'Y' if he tells the truth," was his concluding remark.

Served in Officers.

Like many of the ranks of the 2nd C. M. R., Capt. McGregor rose from the ranks. He came from Prince Rupert to Vancouver to enlist, and went overseas as a trooper. He served in the ranks until Vimy, where he won his D. C. M. and was recommended for his commission.

Won Coveted Cross.

It was on September 29th last that he won the Victoria Cross. In the heavy fighting before Cambrai his company was being held up by a nest of German machine guns. He located them and accompanied by one man who was killed before he got half way across, McGregor rushed across the 300 yards of open shell-swept ground with his rifle and bayonet. He killed the four Huns and captured their eight guns. All the officers had been killed or wounded. He made a personal reconnaissance of the ground and went back, taking the rest of his company. They swept the Germans out of Neuville St. Remy and established a line back to the Cambrai Canal. The 2nd C. M. R. had taken the most advanced positions on the Cambrai line through his daring action. It was one of the finest feats of the whole war and all the more remarkable because of his being wounded early
