PREMIER BENNETT AND CONFERENCE

Certain London newspapers have shown a tendency to blame Premier Bennett of Canada for holding up the business of the Imperial economic conference now in session at Ottawa by tardiness in placing Canada's full proposals before the parley. One of the metropolitan correspondents goes so far as to charge the Canadian Prime Minister with "buffoonery." From a Canadian standpoint, however, it is quite possible that Mr. Bennett's "deliberateness," which might be a better way of describing it than as "tardiness" or "buffoonery," may be all to the good. Despite the lamentations of the London press and the protestations of Mr. Havenga of South Africa of alleged beating around the bush, there would seem to be no reason why the conference should not still be a great success. In fact, developments of the past few days would seem to indicate that it will be.

PRINCE RUPERT AND OLYMPICS

Prince Rupert people have been showing a great interest in the activities of the Olympic Games at Los Angeles during the past few weeks. Many people who otherwise take little interest in athletic or sports affairs have been following the Olympic Games with much enthusiasm. This may be explained by the fact that the Olympic Games represent the highest standard of fair and impartially administered amateur athletic endeavor. Their international control removes anything that might savor of the partial no matter where the Games may be held. The Daily News has been bringing the people of Prince Rupert the splendid reports of the Canadian Press exclusively each day and will continue to do so until the close of the Olympiad on Sunday next.

INTERESTING DIARY

It was away back in 1880 that the father of E. C. Stevens of Skidegate hiked from Hazelton into the Manson River country which is attracting considerable interest now because of its gold bearing gravels. Mr. Stevens washed gold but his cleanups were never very large and in the fall he returned to Hazelton without becoming rich. For many years Mr. Stevens kept a diary and he tells of weather conditions, of the people he met and of what they did. It is an interesting sidelight on the early days in British Columbia.

SPORT NOTES

With an eye to the future of track and field athletes who will carry Canada's banner to new Olympic contests four or eight years from now, the British Columbia Olympic Clubs Association has been formed in Vancouver to give British Columbia's youthful athletes an opportunity to develop their talent. British Columbia has been well represented at previous Canadian meets but facilities for discovering and developing promising Olympic material have been lacking and the number of star performers relatively small.

Large numbers of British Columbia boys and young men have never donned spikes or trunks to see what they could do in track and field competition. The finest athletic talent may be lying unrecognized, waiting only the opportunity to be discovered. Organization was needed and the British Columbia Junior Olympic Clubs was formed. Under its direction British Columbia's youth will be given an opportunity to experiment in all branches of track and field events and to discover the sport best suited to them. Athletes in all parts of the province will be organized into district clubs and an inter-sectional track meet held annually. In this way promising athletes will be coached along to carry the Maple Leaf to further Olympic victories.

The newly formed body already has practically every important athletic club in British Columbia linked up, from Vancouver Island on the coast and the Okanagan in the east, to Prince Rupert and Quesnel in the north. Standards of competition have been drawn up, pole vault, shot puts, and hammer throw. Registration for participation in the Junior Olympics program requires that the athlete shall not have attained his majority (21 years) on November 1 of the year of the meet in which he is participating, and he must have 60 days residence in the province prior to the meet.
