MUSICAL EVENT PROVED A VERY GREAT SUCCESS

Choir and Orchestra and Splendid Soloists Delighted Large
Audience at Westholme
Theatre.

The second grand concert of the Prince Rupert Musical Society took place last night in the Westholme Theatre and was a great advance over the previous one, not in attendance, although that was good, but in the quality of the performance.

Both choir and orchestra showed great improvement since the last event of a similar kind. The voices blended and balanced well, there was good attack and the shading was much improved. Not at any time was there an indication that the singers had got out of hand. In fact the programme throughout was entirely pleasing.

Of the symphony orchestra enough cannot be said. The change from the previous Musical society concert was most marked. The unity of expression, the attack and the balance had been perfected to such an extent that the orchestra may now be looked upon as one of the creditable organizations of the city. Under the leadership of Professor Harvey, who has undertaken the training since the beginning, the progress of this group of instrumentalists has been wonderfully improved.

The Soloists.

For the soloists also there can be nothing but praise, words fail to express the enjoyment of the audience, but recognition was given in full after each song. Mrs. Dalby Morkill was in good voice, not so good perhaps as at some of her performances, but so good that the audience insisted on recall after recall. In her rendition of the popular Irish and Scottish airs she was particularly popular.

Dr. Large was in splendid voice and his solos were very much appreciated. It seems a pity that with the doctor living so near by he is not heard here oftener, for his singing is an education. That lullaby bit that he gave last night was perfect.

Will Edmunds fairly excelled himself in his 'cello solos and his accompaniment to Mrs. Morkill in "My Rosary" was most pleasing.

The quartette, Mrs. J. H. McLeod, Miss Edmunds, J. E. Davey and A. Clapperton was very nicely balanced and proved a most enjoyable number.

The instrumental trio by Professors Harvey, Edmunds and W. J. Pitman was possibly one of the best bits of the evening. It was the Intermezzo Sinfonica from Cavalleria Rusticana and was an art production of a high order.

Splendid Work.

It is seldom in a town so removed from the great centres as is Prince Rupert that a group of musicians of such high order is gathered. Mr. Pitman's accompaniments added a great deal to the general effect of the evening. It is, however, to the two leaders, to J. E. Davey and to Professor Harvey, that the major portion of the praise is due. Mr. Davey has worked almost day and night to train his voices, both en masse and in groups and the art production of last night certainly must have been pleasing to him as it certainly was to the audience.

Professor Harvey, too, has gathered a group of instrumentalists, many of them with little previous experience and has knit them into a pleasing whole which at his command emits delightful harmony.

At the close of the concert W. E. Williams thanked the performers and the audience and said a few appreciative words of the work of the choir and orchestra, mentioning what was in everybody's mind, that the city should be proud of having such an organization here.

WHY EXPERIMENT?

Food scientists claim that the leavener is largely responsible for the flavor, texture and wholesomeness of your home baking. That on no other one ingredient does so much depend. It is important, therefore, to use a baking powder that you know possesses the necessary leavening qualities.
