School Children

Make Good Showing.

Surprise was expressed Friday afternoon that there were so many children in town, as they marched through the streets, forming a line a quarter of a mile long. Splendid children they were, healthy and strong, giving mute evidence of the fact that this is a fine climate for young people.

Besides being numerous and healthy and strong the children were well behaved. Taking into consideration the conditions, the order maintained was wonderful and was a credit to teachers, want. See the classified column children and parents. Even though some of the speeches were on Page 5. fired well over the youngsters' heads they did not seem to give way to mischief to any considerable extent in order to fill in the waiting time until they should hear something that would appeal to them.

On the whole the event was most successful and the Daughters of the Empire are to be congratulated.

Public Schools Basis Of All Education.

Seeing the little folks marching together with one purpose section eight (8), (Map 923). last Friday, called to mind that much of the work of the future of the tax purchased within 35 days from citizens rests with the public schools, just as much as with the which may be effected by publication in higher institutions of learning. It is the groundwork that counts. a daily newspaper), and your attention is called to section 36 of the "Land Registry First impressions of school life are either discouraging or inspiring, and the junior teacher that can inspire a pupil sends his influence on along the course, through the high school and university and into the harder school of experience which comes later.

When pupils do well at the university it must be remembered that the public schools laid the groundwork, the high schools carried it on and the university professors did their part. Given a poor start, however, the chances are against the success of a pupil. There must be groundwork on which to build and this groundwork is laid in the lower school.

Women Taking Place of Soldiers.

Poor Attendance at Canadian Club Lunch.

It is a pity that the citizens did not feel it incumbent on them to attend in larger numbers at the lunch of the Canadian Club on Saturday in honor of Lieut. Col. Peck. Places were laid for nearly one hundred but, very little more than half that number | ing District of Prince Rupert, and situate | attended. The club is a representative public institution and it is most discouraging to make preparations and have no hearty response. The occasion was unique, the address was intensely the following described lands:interesting, but the attendance was most disappointing.
