RAY COLLISHAW HAS TASTE FOR ADVENTURE

One Example of His Indomitable Courage and Great Skill.

"With an insatiable appetite for adventure of the thrilling kind and a heart as big as a mother's, it is no wonder, to those who know Lieut.-Col. Ray Collishaw, why he was followed, admired and deeply respected by all who came under his authority.

"His squadron—number 203—before the amalgamation of R. F. C. and R. N. A. S., 'number three naval'—was not an ordinary squadron. His flight commanders and pilots, may, to the casual observer, have looked ordinary, but they were not. Their one idea was to serve him, and the best way to serve him—and the way he appreciated best was the shooting down of Huns.

"After a successful scrap, 'Collie,' as he was known to his friends, was always to be found in the anteroom of his squadron mess eagerly listening to the story of the fight. To his pilots the mere honor of shooting down a Hun machine was nothing compared to the pat on the back that 'Collie' generally administered after a successful fight.

"The code of honor of his squadron, built up by himself of course, was very high. Here is one little incident that helped to build that code.

Gallant Work.

"He was returning alone one evening, and had just enough petrol in his tank to carry him back to his aerodrome. As he crossed our front line he casually glanced back and found a broken-up formation of our long-distance bombers gallantly fighting a big patrol of Huns.

"Without hesitation he turned back and climbed up to the fight. Without his assistance the bombers would have had very short shrift. As it was he fought the Hun scouts all over the sky and shot two down. By then the bombers were safely across our lines. At 14,000 feet, five miles into Hunland, Collishaw's engine 'conked out' through his petrol supply having run out. Twisting and dodging his assailants, who realized that his engine had stopped functioning, 'Collie' glided back west and effected a perfect landing a quarter of a mile inside the British lines!"

PROPER INVESTIGATION

Will you inform me what Government is taking steps to find out the profits made by the merchants. It seems strange to me that they would appoint the men who are supposed to be making the profits to investigate themselves.

There was a high cost of living committee appointed a year ago and the members of that committee were merchants, and the mayor, I believe. How do you expect to get any information by that method.

When the government holds an investigation of labor conditions they appoint a manufacturer, a lawyer and possibly one laborer.

But what a difference when they go to look into the cost of living. Those men can bring in a report tomorrow that will be as reliable as any they will bring.

Do you expect any man to admit he is making too much money?

Any way that is beginning at the wrong end. It is not the poor retailer that is making the big profit but the bigger men.

Now, Mr. Editor, I believe in the government as by custom established, but do you wonder at people saying they have no confidence in our system when we do things like this.

What would you think if the police commission asked the club owners if they were allowing card playing in their clubs?

Let us wake up and get at the root of things and the unrest will soon vanish and we will laugh and be gay, but the old methods, selling for all you can get, are dead.

Take the lead, Mr. Editor, and demand a proper committee to investigate those things and the people will have some confidence in the findings.

Yours truly,
 STILL HOPEFUL.

FARM LOANS for SOLDIERS

How Everyone Can Help

THE Government has developed a liberal and broad plan to help soldiers settle on farms. It is securing land. It is granting substantial loans. It is obtaining advantageous prices on equipment, implements, building materials and live stock. It is providing agricultural training and farming supervision.

That is as much as the Government itself can do.

But the plan needs more. It needs a community spirit of co-operation.

Already Provincial Governments, Universities, Farmers' Associations, and Veterans' Associations are giving valuable assistance. Many manufacturers and sellers of farm supplies have agreed to allow the soldier settlers special prices. Many successful farmers have willingly worked on Qualification Committees which have to pass on the applicants. Men who have had experience in lending money on farm property are serving on Advisory Loan Committees, judging land values.

But even such practical assistance is not enough. In each community farmers can be of real service to the soldier settler. They can give him advice about local conditions. They can lend him an extra horse or plough, give him a day's help at seeding or harvest time, and extend to him that friendly, neighborly, respectful spirit which he deserves.

In this way Canada is performing a double duty. It is discharging, as far as possible, the debt we owe to our soldiers; and it is adding to the country's chief industry a body of competent, willing producers.

Full information about lands and loans for soldiers will be sent on request to the Provincial Superintendent, Soldier Settlement Board,

Rogers Building, Vancouver, B. C.

"The distribution of soldier settlers in settled rural communities will be of material assistance to the less experienced settlers in that they can get advice and assistance from their neighbors."
