Development of Interior Lands.

Prince Rupert people do not realize the strides that are being made in the way of settling up the interior farming country, especially the Bulkley Valley. With a permanent population there, this city will be able to secure a better and more regular supply of farm produce and also will find that the farmers from the interior will pay more or less regular visits to the coast, all of which means more business. As Prince Rupert develops into a sea port she will be able to handle more of the produce from the interior.

Should Capitalize Scenery Along Railway.

The scenery along the Grand Trunk Pacific line is the equal of if not superior to that of any other route to the coast. Some of the mountain and river scenery is unsurpassed. All who have made the trip speak most highly of it and of the accommodation on the trains.

Up to this time the scenery has not been capitalized. It has not become well enough known to attract large numbers of visitors, but the time is not far distant when thousands of people will travel by way of Prince Rupert simply because of the wonderful scenery that way. The variety is something which excites comment. The tourist tires of rugged mountains, but here he gets not only rugged mountains but all the combinations that can be imagined. Some day it will be known to the world and then the world will come this way.

"ALGERINE" REPLACES "TEES" AS SALVAGE SHIP

When Alterations Completed Will Be Finest Equipped Salvage Ship Afloat.

The former sloop "Algerine" is being converted into a salvage ship at the present time at Victoria. The vessel was acquired by the Pacific Salvage Company recently for this purpose, and when the extensive alterations necessary are completed she will be the finest salvage vessel afloat. The alterations which the vessel is at present undergoing will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, and she should be ready for commission in about a month.

The original mainmast of the ship has been taken out and another stepped in its place. The stick is sixty-four feet long, and is two feet thick at the butt. From this will pivot three heavy derrick booms, and a steel boom. Capstans and winches, the most powerful of their kind, are being installed, together with a wireless apparatus capable of sending 3,000 miles. It's receiving radius is very much wider. The vessel is very powerfully engined and will be able to do sixteen knots under forced draught.

When the Algerine is put into commission the chartered steamer Tees, which is presently being operated by the company will be returned to her owners. The Algerine will make a lengthy cruise south just as soon as she is fit for sea.

Eastern Prices on Community Silver

We just received a copy of the Robert Simpson Co. catalogue and find that our prices on Community Silver are exactly the same as theirs. We mention this as proof that we are trying to give our customers as good service as they can get anywhere.

Other things we can prove it by are Big Ben clocks. Walham and other watches. Waterman pens, Rogers silver and almost any well known article.

SCATHING REPORT ON BOLSHIEVISM

Norwegian Socialist Party at Lenin's Request Make Study of Real Conditions in Russia.

Some time ago Lenin asked the Norwegian Socialist Party, with which he had been coquetting, to send two members of the party to Russia to study the real conditions under Bolshevism. The Socialists of Norway deputed two Socialist lawyers, MM. Puntervold and Stang, to carry out this investigation. They have just returned after accomplishing their mission.

Passing through Stockholm on their way back to Christiania they communicated some of their impressions to the Swedish Socialist organ Social-Demokraten. They had been given every freedom to pursue their studies, had interviewed most of the leading Bolsheviks, beginning with Lenin himself, whom they called a Peter the Great of Bolshevism Russia, and Trotsky, who is making of Russia a Socialist military power. The latter boasted of having created a large and well-trained army that could give a good account of itself against any invading force.

Red Terror.

The Red Terror, nevertheless, continued unabated, as the soldiers belonging to the Red Army lived mostly on exactions and plunder and the levying of blackmail. A summary court was unceasingly at work emptying the prisons of hostages. Peters, the president of one of these revolutionary tribunals, declared that these tribunals altogether had not executed more than 3,000 "counter-revolutionaries." This statement the Norwegian investigator found later to be a great under-estimation of the facts, as there are over 500 of these tribunals at work, which must be credited some with hundreds, some with thousands of these summary executions.

As regards the working class, they could not be worse off than they are in Petrograd and Moscow, where they have no work and are starving. Starvation, moreover, was no vain word, for it is impossible to imagine anything more pitiable than the conditions prevailing in this respect in both capitals.

Bitter Complaints.

The complaints against the Soviet Government were bitter, despite the severity of the police measures and the spying system in force. Whinnings and grumbings were heard everywhere from almost everybody. The starvation was mostly due to faulty administration and the deplorable state of the railway communications. As an instance of this, M. Puntervold states that of 7,000 locomotives on the railway lines he was told that over 4,500 were out of use through disrepair.

When he asked a leading railway official why they were not attended to the latter replied that the men were too weakened by hunger to be able to carry out such fatiguing work, and that it takes five men to lift the weight that one could easily raise before. "You cannot," he said, "get them to work at light jobs more than a couple of hours a day." It is a vicious circle; men are starving because the locomotives are out of repair, and the locomotives continue out of repair because the workmen are starving.

Vicious Circle.

This vicious circle is now met with constantly in everything Russian except the vivid imagination of the Bolshevik leaders, who continue to boast that Bolshevism is conquering the world and that all the peoples before long will be converted to its tenets and will impose them by force upon their reactionary governments.
