ST. ANDREW'S TEAMS IN FOOTBALL MATCH

There was considerable excitement at the football pitch on the Acropolis grounds last night when the married and single members of the St. Andrew's Society strove for the mastery. Owing to the rain one or two of the originally chosen teams, understanding there would be no game, did not turn up, and their places had to be filled, which resulted in all the married players not being in the one team, nor all the single men in the other.

The game was a swift one throughout, and although the singles, rallying to the call of their playing manager, George "Washington" Abbott, did their utmost, they could not get through the stubborn defence of their opponents. As a matter of fact, the two goals scored for the married team were shot by a single man, while the goalkeeper for the single team was married himself.

Some good play was shown, some of the younger players displaying good form, and with training ought to be acquisitions to the senior team.

Women's Topics

(From our own correspondent)
Never perhaps has more beautiful lingerie been worn than now. Women are not deterred by the high prices, and although many make their own undergarments, even then large sums are spent on the materials. For the prices of crepe and silk and all the fine white cottons have gone up tremendously of late and now more than ever, dainty women like their things trimmed with hand-made lace, which is also much dearer than it was in the days when linen thread and labor were less expensive.

Fine white lingerie, handsewn and trimmed either with lace or delicate hand-embroidery is never out of fashion and many women are conservative enough to prefer this to any of the smart colored silks and crepes now in vogue. Still it requires much strength of mind not to be tempted into buying some of the exquisite undies of pale-toned crepes and other soft silky fabrics and most brides of today invest in one or two sets.

Black underwear has never been popular in this country, but though pale pink, blue and mauve are the colors most worn, some smart women have a craze for gayer hues. Deep cerise and tomato red go to the making of some cami-knickers and chem-petticoats while various shades of yellow and vivid greens are also on sale.

Blanket stitch and button stitching often take the place of lace and many lovely garments of crepe finished in this way are quickly made at home by girls who are clever with the needle. Floral voile blanket stitched in thick thread the color of the flowers is fashionable and most economical.

Nothing gives such satisfactory wear as the finest of cambrie or one of the other fine washing fabrics trimmed with hand made lace. Crepe needs practically no adornment, and although the beauty of undies of this material is much enhanced by a touch of embroidery, or an edging of fine lace, some of the newest are simply finished with hem stitching or bands of crepe in a contrasting color.

WATER NOTICE DIVERSION AND USE.

TAKE NOTICE that The Wallace Fisheries Limited, whose address is Vancouver, British Columbia, will apply for a licence to take and use 5 miners' inches of water to Watun River, which flows north-westerly and drains into Masset Inlet, near the northwest corner of Lot 792, Queen Charlotte Islands. The water will be diverted from the stream at a point about a quarter of a mile from the mouth of stream, and will be used for steam and incidentally industrial purposes upon the land described as Lot 792 Queen Charlotte Islands District. This notice was posted on the ground on the 3rd day of June, 1919. A copy of this notice and an application pursuant thereto and to the "Water Act, 1914," will be filed in the office of the Water Recorder at Prince Rupert, B. C. Objections to the application may be filed with the said Water Recorder or with the Comptroller of Water Rights, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B. C. within thirty days after the first appearance of this notice in a local newspaper. THE WALLACE FISHERIES LIMITED, Applicant. By Fred Nash, Agent. The date of the first publication of this notice is June 19, 1919.

WHAT WINNIPEG THINKS OF PRINCE RUPERT CITY

"Free Press" Gives the Northern Metropolis Some Descriptive Publicity.

CITY MUST LIVE UP TO ITS GOOD REPUTATION

Said a Prince Rupert man, "Quite a fuss was made at one time over us; We were given quite free, much publicity. When we were a new terminus." With this delightful limerick, the Winnipeg Free Press published a little article regarding Prince Rupert the other day. While many of the citizens here may regard Winnipeg with mixed feelings at the present moment, still the nice things its newspaper says about us ought to be appreciated. The article reads: "Prince Rupert, the Pacific terminus of the G. T. P., is situated on the northern coast of British Columbia, 550 miles north of Vancouver. A few years ago when it was selected as the terminus of the G. T. P., Prince Rupert occupied a prominent place on the front page of Canadian newspapers from coast to coast. A great future was predicted for the little town and some enthusiasts mentioned it as a possible rival of Vancouver for the honor of being Canada's greatest Pacific city.

"It has developed rapidly since 1914 when the line was completed but it is still a long way from the leadership of the Pacific coast cities. The town has an ideal site. It is at the mouth of the Skeena river, and its harbor is sheltered by Kaien Island, seven miles long. That Oriental Line. A number of steamship lines to the Orient have regular sailings from Prince Rupert and it also has steamer connections with all coast points. It has a floating drydock and a shipbuilding plant installed at a cost of three million dollars, and also a two million dollar cold storage plant. The city has several fine public buildings, including a marine hospital and quarantine hospital, drill hall and large exhibition buildings. There are six churches, four schools, five banks and several sawmills. The municipality owns the water, light and power plants and the city streets are particularly well lighted. The residential districts are beautifully laid out and contain numerous fine houses and the city has several large public parks. The population is 6,500."

WESTERN DRAMA AT WESTHOLME THEATRE

Great Photoplay of the Cattle Plains to be Screened Tonight and Good Comedy.

One of the most popular of movie stars, Wm. S. Hart, delighted large audiences last night at the Westholme Theatre in a great picture of the West entitled "The Cold Deck." This is a stirring photoplay of the west, the west that is fast disappearing. It is action all the time and there is not a dull moment from beginning to end. Wm. S. Hart has won for himself a foremost place in the liking of cinema enthusiasts and as the star in a good play, offers splendid entertainment.

"The Cold Deck" is followed by four reels of comedy. There are two Christie reels and a two-reel Fox comedy, which altogether make up a splendid program.

SPLENDID SHOW AT EMPRESS THEATRE

Big Feature Billed for Tonight; Also Another Episode of Serial and Comedy.

"Little Miss No-Account" is the feature at the Empress Theatre to be screened this evening. Gladys Leslie is the star and a very dainty actress she proves to be. The story of the play is one which appeals to everyone, and the experiences of the little lady obtain for her at once the sympathy of her audience. The acting is good throughout.

This feature is followed by the ninth episode of "The Woman in the Web," the serial which is creating so much interest, and the whole program is completed by a Sidney Drew Comedy.
