URGES CANADIAN MANUFACTURERS TO GET AFTER EXPORT TRADE

Vast Field in Europe for Canadian Manufactured Articles; Barter Suitable For Russia.

In emphasizing the necessity for Canadian manufacturers to develop initiative in seeking export business, business which is waiting for them in Britain, in Europe, and in the other markets which these countries formerly supplied, Lloyd Harris, before the Canadian Manufacturers' Association recently, did not mince words when he referred to lack of efficient selling organizations, neglectful methods in dealing with prospects, reprehensible efforts to make the other fellow pay the limit, etc., which are today factors working against expansion of our trade. He told the manufacturers that they would have to get on the job if they wanted this business. They would have to send practical representatives into the field, be prepared to meet competition, produce goods to suit the consumer, and in other ways organize efficiently to grasp the opportunities now afforded. Further he advised that manufacturers and bankers work together to establish their own credit arrangements and thus get away as soon as possible from Government paternalism; the Government for that matter had its own financial problems without financing trade.

Mr. Harris reviewed the efforts of his associates and himself on the trade mission. He told of the difficulties encountered owing to financial and other conditions which were emphasized by lack of samples and prices, and illustrated how those manufacturers who had been on the job had secured important business; in some cases representatives who went to England to buy goods had returned to Canada with export orders.

Establishment of Canadian credits in some of the countries where trade opportunities exist, such as Roumania and Greece, is possible to a great extent, but in Southern Russia there is no financial machinery fit for such transactions. Yet there, he explained, there is an immense opportunity for business carried on by the simple, old Indian system of trade and barter. Exchange of goods on huge scale is possible there, as Mr. Harris showed.

A COMEDY-DRAMA AT EMPRESS THEATRE

Blue Ribbon Feature With Two Episodes of Serial "The Woman in the Web."

"A Gentleman's Agreement" is the feature to be shown at the Empress Theatre this evening. This is one of the Blue Ribbon Vitaphone plays, and starring Nell Shipman, it makes a splendid comedy-drama. There will also be two episodes of the great serial which has been running for the last month or so, "The Woman in the Web." This story grows the more absorbing with every episode, and those who have followed the tale from the beginning will be quite pleased to have two chapters this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Brenton Lea, who have been visiting in the city for the past few days whilst waiting transportation to their home in Buckley Bay, left for that port on the Tillamook this morning. Mr. and Mrs. Lea have just returned from a trip to the eastern states and Canada.

WONDERFUL STORY
AT THE WESTHOLME

"The Hun Within," the Most Clever Picture Play, Tonight With All-Star Cast.

For clever acting and splendid photography "The Hun Within," to be screened at the Westholme Theatre this evening, is unsurpassed among photoplays. With an all-star cast including Dorothy Gish and Gorge Fawcett, this Paramount-Artcraft special production is the best of its kind yet produced. The story of the play is one that has already become hackneyed even among photoplays. The doings of German spies in countries other than their own have been written of time and again. Yet in this play the acting is so fresh and clever and the tale is so well told that it holds the audience enthralled right from the start.

It is about a German-American loyal to the country of his adoption, but whose son swears allegiance to the Kaiser, and works hand in hand with other German agents. They plan to destroy a transport carrying troops to France by means of a time bomb. Of course their plans are frustrated, but how this is done proves to be the most exciting, interesting and engrossing picture plays ever displayed here. Tonight's program is completed with one of Mack Sennett's comedies which are famous the world around, making a combination of excellence unsurpassed.

Among those leaving for southern points on the Queen Charlotte Islands today by the Grand Trunk power schooner Tillamook was W. G. Emmons who recently arrived from the south. Mr. Emmons, who is a graduate of the University of British Columbia, will join an archaeological party for the summer months and in the fall will leave for Montreal to take up a medical course at McGill.
