TAGGED SALMON IS CAUGHT IN FRASER

At five o'clock in the afternoon of August 16 Chief Louis, one of the well known British Columbia descendants of the noble redskin and resident at Soda Creek for many years past, landed a sockeye bearing the tell-tale tag on the upper tail fin.

Although the tag did not bear the exact date of the operation and release from the ocean traps, it is presumed by J. P. Babcock, assistant to the Commissioner of Fisheries for British Columbia, in his communication to Commissioner the Hon. William Sloan, that the finny member was sent on its way from American waters about the middle of July.

In view of the fact that Soda Creek is about four hundred miles above the mouth of the Fraser river it will be seen that the distance was travelled to the upper spawning grounds in about one month.

Mr. Sloan says that his assistant in his report made from Quesnel, declares that there are very few salmon at any point in the interior sections of the famous waterway and its tributaries. Chilooten Indians, he reports, have taken less than three hundred sockeye this season while the Indians at Soda Creek secured a considerably less number, one of which, however, was the interesting specimen landed by Chief Louis.

TO CARRY OUT PLANS

Accident at Vancouver Will Not Deter Government From Its Programme, Says Pattullo.

The accident at Vancouver on Wednesday by which the hydro-plane leased by the government for forest protection service was wrecked when it fell 1,000 feet, will postpone the government's plan for the inauguration of the aerial patrol but will not change the general programme. Hon. T.
D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, states. A new machine will be constructed and the plan of the department to extend the airship programme to include not only forest protection work but also photo-topographical survey work will be carried through.

The Minister regretted the accident, first because of the injuries received by the aviator, Lieut. Bishop, who was flying it at the time of the fall, and, second, because of the delay that must ensue in getting the department's programme under way, a programme which, it was hoped, would be inaugurated this season.

The aeroplane during its second trial fell out of control and landed on a housetop.

RE-LOGGING OUTFIT GOING TO MASSET

Storm King Arrived Last Evening With Donkey Engines and Outfit in Tow.

Last evening a logging outfit in tow of the tug Storm King arrived in port. It was the subject of considerable curiosity along the waterfront when it appeared in sight and there was much speculation as to what it might be. On arrival it was found to be the re-logging outfit of the Pacific Mills at Ocean Falls. This outfit is going over to Mosset Inlet to clean up after some of the spruce outfits and will use the product for pulp purposes. There were two donkey engines and a covered scow containing paraphernalia.

This action on the part of the Ocean Falls outfit is in line with the policy of conservation of the Provincial Forestry Department which has been working in conjunction with the Imperial Munitions Board in connection with the spruce production.

London, Sept. 12.—The food vanced two pence per pound after September 22. The official statement explains that the increase is chiefly necessitated because of the heavier cost of imported meat from America and the rise in the freight rates.
