acquired citizenship in Canada at a great cost and sacrifice. Is it right to deprive them of what we give them; the Boer War was brought on and fought on this issue because the Transvaal authorities would not recognize the rights of Britishers in their country. Are we to adopt two standards, one when it pinches us and another when it pinches the other fellow?

Asks Withdrawal.

I am with you to improve our citizenship by every legitimate and fair means. I do not favor the admission of Orientals into our country, and I believe you are sincere in your desire for a white B. C. but I believe the only effective way is to fight the issue as a whole and rigidly exclude undesirable people from our shores and our citizenship. I, therefore, respectfully ask you to withdraw your circular letter as the same may have the effect of keeping away an industry which we need, and if so, would ultimately place your organizations in an unfavorable light. All the Citizens of Prince Rupert would be the poorer without this industry and the great problem sought to be obtained, would be no nearer to solution. The way to settle this question is not by shutting down industries or preventing industries. Let us all join together to get every advantageous industry possible and at the same time do all in our power to stop Oriental influence.

Not Parallel Case.

I would also like to point out that the B. C. Sugar Refinery is not a parallel case, as it enjoys an exclusive monopoly of this industry in B. C. and is protected by a high tariff and its product is marketed in Canada exclusively at a price very much in excess of that at which it could be imported were there no tariff walls and no monopolistic control, because it is a matter of common knowledge that B. C. Sugar Refinery carries on business under methods which compels the wholesalers of Western Canada to buy from them exclusively and fixes their retail prices. Such is not the case with the Pulp and Paper industry whose markets is the world and almost exclusively outside of Canada.
