BAD FLOOD AT PRINCE GEORGE

People Go to and From Houses in Boats—Chickens Roost in Trees.

PRINCE GEORGE, Dec. 2.—The flood situation, which followed the heavy jam of ice on the Nechako River last week, is little improved. On Saturday, the water which has been slowly backing up, flooded the railway yards and gradually encroached on the main C. N. R. tracks. By Sunday the main line was under water for some distance and the low lying properties in the vicinity of the station was also under water. The trains are able to move, however, and traffic is not seriously impeded.

Water has entered many houses at the Cache and people are using boats and canoes to get to and from them. Anxiety was felt for some time for the city power house and some of the machinery had to be moved to a higher level.

Chickens in Trees.

Trepelies were blasted in the railway yards but the railway company is now working on the ice jam attempting to blow out a channel for the flood water.

Chickens, released from their coops in the vicinity of Cache, were found roosting in the trees by their owners and were harking to the primitive so fast that hunting parties were organized and the birds were picked off their roosts by hunters in canoes.

There is danger to the Nechako River bridge, the ice and water now being on a level with its floor. The bridge has already been slightly moved out of alignment.

BIG FOOTBALL MATCH TORONTO TOMORROW

TORONTO, Dec. 2.—Edmonton Eskimos football team has been training steadily all week since arriving here and is in good form for the big match tomorrow against the Toronto Argonauts for the championship of Canada.

The public were not given a chance to see them in action and, as the westerners believe that they have secrets to guard, they are not likely to divulge anything previous to the game. From what can be learned about them they are another McGill team—one backfield player of class and a wing line which specializes in line plunges defensively and offensively.

The Globe sporting writer expects that, like Parkdale, the Edmonton wing line will probably show a lot of strength in stopping line plunges, but that is not where the Argonauts will direct their attack, and if Quarterback Cochrane opens up the play he will force the westerners to weaken their inner defense to such an extent that it will be an easy task for men like McCormick and Strittell to get through for long gains.

The Edmonton team are favorites in some quarters, but most Torontonians are too loyal to their own club to bet against them.

NEWSPRINT PRICES MAY BE CUT IN STATES

MONTREAL, Dec. 2.—It is rumored that the International Paper Co. will cut the price of its newsprint to American customers after the new year, five dollars below the Canadian price which is now standing at $75.
