Obtaining an enthusiastic crowd of six thousand extra people from a community of less than three thousand population was the seemingly impossible accomplishment of the Thomas H. THREE MEN IN A BOAT SPENT WEEK-END ON WAY NORTH

Three men in a boat left for Kelchikan on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The three men were: Fred Stephens, captain; Stan Wilson, chief engineer; George Shaw, cook. The boat was the Shawitans.

The Prince Rupert Rowing and Yachting Club is left behind, so is Metlakatla, Tugwell Island and Georgetown. Not far from Port Simpson, in Chatham Sound, engine trouble develops. The engineer is unimpaired. All hands and the cook are called to the seat of motive power. But there is no result. The faithful engine refuses to respond.

BETTER THAN THE REVERSE

"Do you like—housework, Bridget?" said the mistress to her new and elderly assistant. "Oh! not lie to 'ee mum," answered Biddy. "Oh do not, but as the two of prefer housework to the workhouse."—Boston Transcript.

Sport Chat

With the defeat of W. H. Vickers by J. H. Bidditch on Monday afternoon, the second round of the Wanderers' Club billiard handicap was completed. The results for the round were as follows: Stark beat Shockley; Stephens beat Hooper; Wilson beat Howe; Harper beat Fitzmaurice; Thrupp beat King. All the winners in this round advance to the third round while the losers drop out of the tournament.

The Prince Rupert Club seem to have superior billiard players to the Wanderers. That is on the whole, anyway. It is true that the Wanderers have two or three old, seasoned veterans at the game who are hardly ever beaten. But the Prince Rupert has more players of this stamp. Experience seems to count a lot at this game and the older player thus has an advantage over the younger. The Prince Rupert Club tournament billiardists have been playing in the city for ten years or more while some of the Wanderers' Club men did not know what a cue was that long ago.

From a weather standpoint, the hunting season so far has been a failure. It has rained practically all the time since the season opened. While hunting may be good in rainy weather it is a certainty that it is not pleasant so there are many who do not go out. Although game may be harder to get when it is clear and frosty, this kind of weather is no doubt the most popular with the hunters.

THERE is one thing about the Elks—they are not very strong on this dress suit stuff for men.

TALKING about dress suits, I wonder what poor boob invented them. If some of us only had half a chance we would like to wring his neck.

WHILE I am moralizing it might be fit and proper to suggest that noses are to smell with and not to sing through or even to talk through. If they are female noses they also provide a means of keeping the powder factories in operation.

A LITTLE female friend of mine sometimes suggests it might be a good thing if some of my friends contributed to the exchequer of the powder factory.

SHE did not use the word exchequer, of course. That is one of the failings of youth. You can always understand its meaning.
