Red Cross is Carrying On.

Many people wonder why the Red Cross did not stop its work when the war ended. That was what it did after the South African War and it was expected to do the same after the Great War. But the Red Cross was not to be allowed to stop. It was destined to take on the new obligations of a peace-time program, even before it had completed its war work.

Shocking Facts Revealed by War.

The war had made vividly clear some things which a quarter of a century of peace might not have revealed with so much impressiveness. The war had given us a revelation, for it may fittingly be called a revelation of the relative worth and ability of the ordinary man and woman. But the war had revealed also the shockingly poor physical condition of a great proportion of the men of the Empire. Think of the significance of this: During the last year of war, from the 1st of November, 1917, to 31st October, 1918, the number of men called up to the army in Great Britain was 2,425,184. A summary of the results of the medical examination of them shows the following facts: Of every nine men, three were fit and healthy, two were in infirm health, three might be described as physical wrecks, and one as a chronic invalid with a precarious hold on life. Since that was the physical condition of the men at their most vigorous age, what would be the condition of health among the women and children? In other countries the examination of the men called to the colors revealed conditions somewhat similar. In Canada, of the 361,605 draftees under the Military Service Act, the medical examination found 181,229 of them, or about one half, physically unfit for full service in the field. It is not reported that the disabilities were the result of active disease; their condition was the consequence of poor nutrition, neglect of personal hygiene and unsanitary conditions of working and living.

It was inevitable that serious consideration should be given to such an alarming state of affairs in respect to health and that action should be taken for the purpose of remedying it as soon and as far as possible. In consequence soon after the armistice in 1918, with the approval and endorsement of the governments of the five Great Powers (Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan and the United States) a committee of their Red Cross Societies was constituted "to formulate and to propose to the Red Cross Societies of the world an extended program of Red Cross activities in the interest of humanity."

World Authorities Discuss Health.

That committee of five called a conference of medical and public health experts who met at Cannes, France, in April, 1919. The conference is regarded as one of the most remarkable gatherings of authorities on questions of health ever held. It included many of the foremost men of America, France, England, Italy and Japan. Out of the deliberations of the conference came thirteen highly significant resolutions, which are now embodied in the peace time program of the Red Cross. Principal among these are the movements to promote child welfare, secure public health legislation, establish public health laboratories and supply public health nurses.

Canada Does Part In Great Work.

Thus it came about that Canada, as one of the signatories of the peace treaty, agreed to encourage and promote the establishment of its Red Cross Society with a peace-time program. An amendment to the act of incorporation was granted by parliament in 1919 and in it the new and additional purpose of the Canadian Red Cross Society is set forth as follows: "In time of peace or war to carry on and assist in work for the improvement of health, the prevention of disease and the mitigation of suffering throughout the world."

THE TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM

Happily Stopped When He Began To Take "Fruit-a-lives"

3 OTTAWA ST., HUTA, P. Q.

"For a year, I suffered with Rheumatism, being forced to stay in bed for five months. I tried all kinds of medicine without relief and thought I would never be able to walk again."

"One day while lying in bed, I read about 'Fruit-a-lives' the great fruit medicine; and it seemed just what I needed, so I decided to try it."

"The first box helped me, and I took the tablets regularly until every trace of the Rheumatism left me."

TEACHERS WILL PASS THROUGH PRINCE RUPERT

Osborne Scott, C. N. R. General Passenger Agent, Says Busy Tourist Season Coming.

A considerable passenger movement north from Washington and Oregon on the Grand Trunk steamers is expected this summer by Osborne Scott, general passenger agent, who passed through the city yesterday en route for Jasper Park.

Mr. Scott stated that the teachers of the northwestern states are now receiving more remuneration than formerly and are, therefore, in a better position to travel. He said that many of them would make the famous "inside passage" trip this season when their vacations are on. During the years of the war they were too busy to travel. The teachers, Mr. Scott stated, would naturally come up to Prince Rupert and then go east to Edmonton and other prairie cities.

The reopening of the Massett mill and other developments in the north will further aid in swelling the passenger traffic on the G. T. P. boats.

DRILLING OUTFITS FOR OIL COUNTRY

Machinery Also Going North for River and Lake Vessels

EDMONTON, May 18.—Several oil drilling outfits are on their way into the north country. An outfit is being installed by the Alcan Oil Corporation on the Athabasca sand belt near McKay a few miles back from the river.

Another outfit is being installed by J. D. Tate for a Montreal syndicate at Pine Point on Great Slave Lake. York boats are being used to carry the machinery and supplies to their destinations.

Machinery is being installed in a number of river and lake boats which will be used to convey passengers and supplies to the various oilfields of the north.

RUPERT BUYS BOXES AT KETCHIKAN MILL

Word was received this morning by the Ketchikan Power Company that it had been awarded a contract at Prince Rupert for furnishing a large order of boxes for packing fresh fish, according to announcement of the mill, says the Ketchikan Chronicle.

"This order," said Mr. Daly today, "will mean that we will be able to keep the mill running at least a month longer, and we are in hopes that something else will turn up in the meantime to give us further orders of size."

A short time ago a test shipment was sent to Prince Rupert by the Ketchikan Power Company and, by making the price and the goods right the order was landed. While the margin on business of this nature is small, Mr. Daly is anxious to keep the mill running as long as possible as a means of finding employment for the men who have always depended on the mill for employment and many of whom have families.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

May 19, 1921.

City Solicitor Peters this morning conducted his first case in the city police court.

Nick Sheridan, manager of the Portland Canal mine, Stewart, accompanied by his wife and child, is in the city today on his way north.

Worn out with toil and suffering from lack of food, two boat crews from the sealer Pescawa reached Prince Rupert harbor yesterday afternoon. While hunting otters a week ago the men lost their boat in the haze of Banks Island and had to row two hundred miles along the coast living solely on clams. The men in the boats were Joe Morrell, Sid Wombolt, Jack Stewart, Bob Stewart, Fred Smith and Tom Lenton.

PRINCE RUPERT TIDES

Thursday, May 19

High, 11:58 a.m., 18.8 feet.
 Low, 6:06 a.m., 3.9 feet.
 17:59 p.m., 6.6 feet.

Friday, May 20

High, 0:02 a.m., 21.33 feet.
 12:46 p.m., 19.2 feet.
 Low, 6:47 a.m., 3.0 feet.
 18:42 p.m., 6.6 feet.

The time used is Pacific Standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight.

The table given is for Port Simpson but the time for Prince Rupert varies only a few minutes on some days and on others is the same. The range of the tide may be computed as 5 per cent greater at Prince Rupert than at Port Simpson both at springs and neaps. Therefore the rise in the Prince Rupert harbor is slightly greater than Port Simpson.

The height is in feet and tenths of feet above the average level of lower low water.
